

WILSON DRAFTS NEW SPEECH

KETTNER IS ASKED TO PROCURE ORDER

Question of Whether Ships Will Pass In Day or Night Unsettled

PASSAGE AFTER DARK. MAY DISAPPOINT MANY

Armada Will Arrive at San Diego on August 7 and Remain Two Days

WITH the Pacific coast fleet due to cruise along the Orange county coast line on the 8th or 9th of August, steps today were taken to have the fleet come as close to the shore line as safety will permit. J. C. Metzgar, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has written Congressman William Kettner asking him to use his influence with the proper authorities to secure direction that the fleet pass close in.

The tentative itinerary, as announced in news dispatches from Washington to the Register today, is a little bit ambiguous as to whether the fleet will go from San Diego to San Pedro by night or by day.

The departure from San Diego is given as August 8 and arrival at San Pedro as August 9. It isn't a day's trip between the ports, and the fleet would have to leave San Diego very late at night in order not to reach San Pedro before the morning of the 9th.

This is a feature that has developed since the communication of Secretary Metzgar was forwarded and it may be that this will be taken up with Kettner by telegraph.

It would be a keen disappointment to thousands of Orange county people if the fighting ships should make the trip between harbors by night.

At the time of the tour around the world by the big fleet, effort to have the fleet come close to the coast was successful and thousands of people lined the shores to watch the armada pass. It was a sight that none who witnessed it will ever forget.

The fleet is scheduled to arrive at San Diego on August 7, remaining two days, and at San Pedro August 9-13. The fighting machines will be on inspection during the time they are in the harbors, it is understood, and no doubt many will avail themselves of the opportunity for a close view.

Here is a copy of the letter written to Congressman Kettner:

"My dear Mr. Kettner:

"In view of the fact that the homecoming of the new Pacific fleet is of vast importance and interest to this section, would it be possible for you to secure consent of the proper officials to have the fleet on its trip north from San Diego come in close enough to the Orange county coast for our people to see it go by?

"This was done when the United States fleet made its trip around the world and our people enjoyed the occasion by flocking to the coast by the thousands. I remember distinctly that they came within a mile or two of the coast of Newport Beach and the shore line galleries and roof tops were covered with people who went there to give the fleet a welcome. I am of the opinion that a much larger crowd would be attracted to the coast and would greatly enjoy seeing what might be termed our own fleet of war ships.

"Your influence in our behalf is earnestly solicited and will be appreciated."

U.S. BEGINS PROBE OF GREAT FOOD TRUST

CHICAGO, July 16.—Federal investigation of an alleged $100,000,000 food combine here was under way today by Charles F. Clyne, United States district attorney, and Walter B. Wooden and Attorney Charles F. Moore of Washington.

Clyne said there was evidence of a great trust of producers, canners and distributors operating in this territory and extending its activities to all parts of the country.

This combination, Clyne said, controls peas, beans, tomatoes, asparagus and all kinds of canned fruits, vegetables, milk and meats. Impetus was given the investigation by receipt of word that notice had been sent out of a 15 percent increase on future deliveries.

Clyne said he hoped to have the federal trade commission from Washington here next week to assist in the investigation.

HUNGARIAN SOVIETS TO BE CRUSHED BY ARMIES OF ALLIES

PARIS, July 16.—A final armed struggle between the Allies and the Hungarian Reds, with Vienna as the supreme objective, was foreseen today.

The Allies have reached the definite conclusion that central and southern Europe is menaced by a wave of bolshevism. It was declared today that unless Vienna can be saved from the Bolsheviks and permitted to become the capital of a stable government, the peace outlook in Europe will be dubious for years to come.

The Bolsheviks apparently realize as fully as the peace commissioners the supreme strategic importance of Vienna. Consequently the Hungarian soviets were reported to be staking everything upon a final effort to establish a soviet republic in Vienna similar to their own before the present government succeeds in signing peace with the Allies and placing itself on a solid basis.

Should the soviets realize their objective, it was asserted in Allied quarters, they would possess in Vienna a geographical and political radiating point from which it would be possible to extend their influence into Slovakia, Italy, Switzerland, Bavaria, Bohemia and Poland.

Ask Draastic Measures

According to dispatches from Vienna and Budapest, Allied commissions have sent special couriers to Paris, asking the peace conference to adopt immediately the most drastic measures. That Marshal Foch has begun to collect military information already is known.

Budapest dispatches also indicated today that a combined Allied offensive under General D'Esperay was expected daily.

The Rumanian, Czechoslovak and Polish armies, with French and Italian contingents, are ready for action, it was said today. Meanwhile Swiss dispatches announced the Hungarian Reds were being reinforced by Russian soviet troops.

Bela Kun, Hungarian soviet leader, has been warned by the Allies that foreign recruits in Budapest must be respected. The warning was the result of an order confiscating foreign bonds in Hungary.

Bela Kun sent a note to the Allies yesterday denying that he was violating the terms of the armistice. He charged that the Czechoslovaks and the Rumanians were the offenders and asked what action the Allies intended to take.

SAN DIEGO AIRMAN IS KILLED BY FALL, NEAR LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, July 16.—Lieut. C. G. Mauzy, an aviator from Rockwell Field, San Diego, fell 500 feet in his airplane near Hollywood today and was killed.

Mauzy had just taken the air bound for San Diego. After attaining a high altitude apparently he started to do a tail spin as a farewell. It is believed he lost control of the machine. When the plane had dropped to an altitude of about 500 feet watchers were shocked to see it did not come out of the spin and in a moment it crashed to earth, breaking into a mass of flames.

Before the fire could be put out by spectators who rushed to the scene, Mauzy's body had been burned crisp.

SAN DIEGO, July 16.—Officials at Rockwell Field refuse to discuss the accident which killed Lieut. Mauzy at Los Angeles today. They would not give out any information regarding Mauzy. They said that a large number of Rockwell Field aviators had started on various flights today.

BULLETINS

NEW YORK, July 16.—Twenty-five cars oranges and 2 cars lemons sold. Orange market 10 to 25 cents lower. Averages $2.00 to $5.11. Highest price Bird Rock, $6.10. Lemon market 25 cents higher on good stock and weak on poor stock. Averages $1.60 to $4.89. Weather rainy, 8 a. m. temperature 69.

SANTA ROSA, July 16.—Following his declaration of several days ago that he was preparing to change part of his confession that he murdered his young bride Frieda at Ukiah last week, Herman Knaesche today formally denied that he was guilty of the crime.

"The confession was forced from me when I was overcome with grief," he declared from his cell in the county jail here. "I did not know what I was saying. They kept at me until I made a statement. I wanted to be left alone with my grief."

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The United States shipping board steamer Allison which sent out distress calls last night has been brought safely to the Delaware breakwater by the steamer Lakeview according to navy radio messages today.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today voted to ask the state department for copies of all treaties under which Germany acquired rights in China. The treaty of 1898 by which Germany forced China to give up Shantung following the killing of two German missionaries, is particularly wanted by the committee. Following this action the committee resumed reading the treaty.

SWEEPERS OF STREETS MAY AID H. S. NEW, ONCE 'BUDDY'

Oklahoma City Workers Say Alleged Slayer Was Well Liked When Employed 2 Years Ago, Had "Spells."

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., July 16.—Street sweepers of Oklahoma City said today they would go to the assistance of their former co-worker, Harry S. New, jailed in Los Angeles on a charge of killing his sweetheart, Frieda Lesser.

New, who says he is the son of Senator Harry S. New, of Indiana, was a street sweeper here for two years, according to "Uncle" Tom Shumake, who claimed to have been the prisoner's "buddy." Shumake still serves as sweeper and he said today he would make the trip to California to assist his friend.

According to the old man, New came here fresh from Notre Dame University and worked in the streets in spite of fun poked at him because a college man voluntarily took up that sort of work.

"Harry never would have killed the girl if he hadn't lost his mind during one of those spells he used to have," said Shumake. "He just naturally got to thinking about his troubles like he did when I knew him and he didn't know what he was doing."

"He was a fine boy and jolly until he got to thinking about Indiana and his mother and father. He never noticed a girl in this town that I know of. He seemed to love his mother enough to make up for the girls."

Shumake said when New was laughed at for sweeping streets he said "I haven't anything else."

Mrs. Laura Corder, clerk in the street commissioner's office, said New told her father was an Indiana senator and often read passages from his letters. Others in the street commissioner's office spoke about New's moody periods.

New May Get Chance to Dance In Cell at Jail

LOS ANGELES, July 16.—If Harry New, alleged murderer of Frieda Lesser, insists that he danced at Topogano canyon on the night that Miss Lesser died, he will have a chance to dance again—this time in his county jail cell with Miss Harri Pritchard, who thought she danced with New on the night of the murder. That developed today when the district attorney announced that he would insist that Miss Pritchard visit New in his cell and try to identify him. She will even be permitted to dance with him in jail, it was declared, if it will aid in the identification.

Indications today were that the district attorney will demand the death penalty. New, on the other hand, despite his written confession, will plead not guilty when arraigned Friday, it was stated. The trial probably will be held in September.

FEDERAL MEDIATORS HEAR OIL WORKERS

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 16.—The federal mediation commission charged with settling wage differences between the oil field workers and the oil companies, conferred with about 25 representatives of the workers here today. The commission is composed of J. L. Spangler of Pennsylvania, E. P. Marsh of Washington and Assistant Secretary of Labor Kerwin.

A conference with the employers will be held later in San Francisco.

Girl Who Slew Sweetheart Just Giggles About Crime

Margaret Seithamier and her victim, Attorney Benjamin E. Burr.

Does Not Fear Punishment Because She Is Only 17 Years of Age

CHICAGO, July 16.—Pretty Margaret Seithamier, 17-year-old slayer of her former sweetheart, is presenting a puzzle to the police and alienists as well as sociological students.

The girl refuses to take her predicament seriously and just laughs about the killing. She does not fear punishment and boldly declares that she is only 17 years old and therefore "they won't do anything to me."

Margaret was the sweetheart of Benjamin E. Burr, Chicago attorney. Burr had a common law wife and child which the girl knew about and was expecting to marry Burr. However, Burr had another sweetheart and threw Margaret over.

When she learned of this she coolly sought out Burr and shot him to death. At the coroner's inquest she giggled while testimony was being given.

"Do you think I would have shot him if I had been 18?" she asked. "They won't do anything to me. I sat up with my lawyer till 1 o'clock the night before finding out what I could do and what they could do to me."

The girl is being held.

28 AIRMEN DEPART FOR BORDER PATROL

SAN DIEGO, July 16.—Twenty-eight reserve military aviators will leave for Kelly Field, Texas, early tomorrow for assignment to patrols which will fly along the Mexican border, according to announcement made at Rockwell Field today. Among airmen at North Island this was taken to mean that the War Department would not put into effect at once, at least, a recent order discharging reserve officers from the army's air service.

FEDERAL AUTHORITIES SEEKING FIGHT FILM

CHICAGO, July 16.—Federal authorities today sought to locate films of the Dempsey-Willard prize fight, offered to have been shipped from Toledo yesterday in violation of the law of 1912. Superintendent of Investigation Brennan was prepared to seize the pictures.

GENERAL PERSHING HAS BUSY PROGRAM MAPPED FOR TODAY

LONDON, July 16.—General John J. Pershing, as the guest of Great Britain, undertook to carry out a strenuous program arranged in his honor today.

American Ambassador Davis was to present the American commander to a number of distinguished British officials, including Winston Churchill, war secretary, Viscount Peel, under secretary for war, and Lord Milner, colonial secretary.

Lunch had been arranged for him by the American Luncheon club; in the afternoon he was to be a guest at the king's garden party. At night he had been invited to attend a British official dinner at the Carlton hotel, where the general and his staff are stopping.

Welcoming General Pershing to London, the Daily Mail said today:

"We do not forget what we owe the United States, General Pershing and his men. In the dark hours of 1918, when the German legions were driving toward Paris, General Pershing said to Marshal Foch: 'Here are our men, trained and untrained. Take them and use them.' This magnificent gesture of sacrifice restored confidence from that time on."

"At Chateau Thierry, St. Mihiel and the Argonne, the Americans played the essential part in the defeat of the enemy. Their fine courage, their splendid comradeship and boundless fresh reserves behind the war-worn lines were precious assets."

$20,000 GEMS STOLEN WHILE WOMAN SLEPT

PASADENA, Cal., July 16.—Twenty thousand dollars' worth of jewelry stolen from the room of Mrs. Chas. H. Munger in the fashionable Fuller residence here, is sought by police and private detectives today. The jewelry was stolen while Mrs. Munger slept.

PRESIDENT WILL URGE HELP FOR FRANCE

Issues May Be Injected Into Controversy That Will Add Fever

PRESIDENT AWAITING OUTCOME OF DEBATE

Wilson Will Confer With Lansing to Bring Data Up to Date

WASHINGTON, July 16.—President Wilson was understood today to have started work drafting the speech he will make to the senate in presenting for ratification the agreement whereby America and Britain are bound to aid France against unprovoked German aggression.

With the senate debate over the peace treaty and the league of nations already hot, the president is making ready to inject into the controversy issues which probably will increase the feverishness of the argument.

Just when he will appear before the senators with the agreement is problematical and it is believed depends largely on the developments in the present debate. At the moment which is considered most opportune for another speech in behalf of the settlement at Paris, the president's friends look for him to go to the capitol.

Before starting on his transcontinental tour, the president is expected to have a long conference with Secretary Lansing, enroute home from Paris—to learn from him the present feeling in Europe and bring up to date the information he will use in his speeches appealing for support for the covenant and treaty.

Early Reply Expected.

An early reply is anticipated from the White House to Senator Lodge's resolution asking for the alleged secret treaty between Japan and Germany. Government officials say they have no knowledge of it.

There was much discussion today over whether the president, on his tour, would invade Idaho, home state of Senator Borah, chief opponent of the league. It was considered likely the president would make a speech, probably at Boise, to explain to Borah's own townspeople and constituents his reasons for urging the United States to join the league.

The president planned today to keep open house for members of congress from 10 a. m. until noon. He will devote those hours to meeting senators and representatives whether they have appointments or not.

President Wilson is preparing to invite a number of leading Republican senators to confer with him on the peace treaty and the league of nations covenant, it was said at the White House today.

In Line With Policy.

The invitation to the Republican senators—15 of them—who are to be requested to call on the president, was considered in line with Wilson's policy of making himself readily accessible to all members of congress.

It was believed he would take the Republicans into his confidence with regard to the proceedings at Paris and thus seek to weaken opposition to the peace treaty and the league of nations in the senate.

Senator Pomerene, member of the foreign relations committee, will make an early call on the president, it was stated.

Wilson also invited Senator Chamberlain to the White House. Significance was attached to this, as ill feeling was reported to have existed between the president and the Oregon senator since Chamberlain denounced the government's military policy during the war.

The president's first offer to tell the senate through its foreign relations committee, the inside facts in connection with the peace settlement, was with the peace settlement.

WILSON PLANS $11,313,323.53 NEW ADDRESS ON TREATY

Will Urge Ratification of the Agreement to Aid France If Attacked

made in his last speech to the senate. This proposal was reiterated through Senator Hitchcock, who said Wilson would receive members of the committee on 24 hours notice.

No response was forthcoming from the committee and today's announcement at the White House resulted. Announcement of the itinerary of the president's nationwide speaking tour is evidently being held up until the business of telling the senators about the Paris proceedings is disposed of. Francis B. Harrison, governor general of the Philippines, called on President Wilson this morning and discussed with him affairs of the insular government. Governor Harrison said he plans to return to the islands on the first ship that sails.

Nation Must Be Protected By League, Says W. H. Hays

NEW YORK, July 15.—Speaking of the league of nations covenant and the attitude of the Republican party toward it, Will H. Hays, national chairman, declared in a statement issued here last night that "there must be effective reservations to safeguard the sovereignty of the United States in every particular; the pact must guarantee the Monroe Doctrine beyond the shadow of a doubt; must either eliminate article ten entirely or so modify it that congress shall be morally as well as legally free after a specified period to decide when, where and to what extent our soldiers shall be employed, and must provide full right to withdraw from the league at any time, without hindrance or conditions of any kind."

Armistice In Senate As Leaders Plan New Battle

By L. C. MARTIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, July 16.—An armistice prevailed today in senate debate over the league of nations, while leaders of both sides prepared for resumption of hostilities tomorrow.

Senator Hitchcock, administration leader, who was prevented from seeing President Wilson yesterday by the stormy session on the league, hoped to go to the White House to receive information in refuting arguments of league opponents.

Interest continued to center in the probability of a call by the foreign relations committee at the White House. Indications today were that no definite action will be taken on this until the reading of the peace treaty in committee has been finished. By that time it will be apparent what clauses need legislation, it was pointed out, and the committee will be better able to decide whether it will be necessary to question President Wilson.

The situation today remained about as it has been for ten days. Some advocates of reservations to the treaty were discouraged, except with regard to some "interpretative" phrases to be inserted in the resolution of ratification.

The Stanning settlement appeared today to be a weak spot in the treaty. But even though the hostility to this clause is very great, administration senators declared that when the country understands that a reservation on this point might be taken in Japan as a serious affront, the pressure which will be brought to bear on the senate will insure acceptance even of Stanning.

LIBRARY BLOCK AGAIN UNDER OPTION

Board of Trade Will Support Project to Secure Civic Center

ANAHEIM, July 16.—The last barrier holding up the library block tract as a possible city park site was removed when J. F. Ahlborn secured an option from the last property owner in the block.

This information was given to the Anaheim Board of Trade by Mr. Ahlborn, who has been working on the options for several months.

The news was welcomed by loud applause from the members of the Board of Trade and two members of the city council, present. It is the third time the options on this property have been secured for the purpose of creating a city park or a civic center. The last time the project lost at the polls by a narrow margin and the advocates of the civic center proposition feel that the defeat of the project was due to war-time conditions and feel certain that if the question is again put to a vote of the people it will receive the required number of votes to make it a reality. It is estimated that the cost of the property will be about $5,000.

Councilman Gibbs stated that he was glad that the matter had been revived and added that there was a great need for a public park centrally located where the citizens could enjoy its benefits and the children could have some place to play. Councilman Backs expressed himself as being heartily in favor of the project and assured the Board of Trade of his support in the matter.

Ahlborn presented a resolution assuring the city trustees of the support of the Board of Trade in every way possible to put the project over. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

TRAFFIC VIOLATORS FACE JUSTICE TODAY

Quite a number of traffic violators appeared before Justice Cox today to adjust little differences between themselves and the speed cops, and their cases were disposed of in the usual brisk manner. Among the speeders against whom complaints were issued for the past week were Chas. B. Win-vote, K. J. Koebig, Los Angeles; L. Paul Zahn, Hollywood; T. J. Castleberry, L. Van Felt, Minnesota; R. B. Chaplin, Berkeley; and C. A. Caballero, El Centro.

For glare headlights, illegal spot-lights, insufficient lights, or lack of tail lights the defendants are J. A. Merrick, Santa Ana; Joe S. Garcia, Delhi; Franklin Chapman, Santa Ana; Burt Hodson, Orange; Ben Yorba, Anaheim; H. L. Goddard, Fullerton; R. H. Morrison, C. A. Cooke and W. P. Frambes, Los Angeles. There was one lone corner-cutting, J. J. O'Connor of Los Angeles.

CANYON CONTROVERSY IS AGAIN BROUGHT UP

Yesterday a communication from Koebig & Koebig, engineers, of Los Angeles, was read at the meeting of the board of supervisors and was filed. This communication, written because of statements made in the Orange County Citizen during the harbor bonds campaign, declared that the former board of supervisors that instituted the work at the rivers' edge in the Santa Ana canyon did so against the advice of Koebig & Koebig. This same question was threshed out a year or two ago, and at that time some of the members of the former board declared that if Koebig & Koebig had not allowed members of the board to think the project was feasible it never would have been undertaken. At that time the engineers referred to their written reports, just as they are again doing.

Document charred in big fire Is presented here

A relic of the great San Francisco fire that occurred in April, 1906, found its way into the hands of the Orange County Title Co. yesterday when E. C. Love, a pioneer settler of Orange, now of San Francisco, presented a charred certificate of title.

Love was here for the purpose of arranging the sale of some property at Buena Park. The certificate of title was one issued on the property on Feb. 14, 1903, by the Orange County Title Co. This certificate was in what was supposed to be a fireproof vault that passed through the big fire. The heat was so intense that the documents in the big safe did not escape. Though black and charred, much of the printed and typewritten matter on the certificate can still be discerned.

DRY QUESTION'S MORE INTEREST THAN LEAGUE

Dr. J. D. Thomas Talks of Conditions In Philadelphia, Pa.

"Philadelphia was a whole lot more interested over the prohibition question than it was over the League of Nations controversy," declared Dr. J. D. Thomas of Olive today. Dr. Thomas has just returned from a month's stay at his former home city where he owns a business block formerly occupied by his firm as dental offices.

"The approach of prohibition called forth a lot of discussion as to when the war ended, if it is ended," continued he. "But on the first of July Philadelphia went dry. All of the clubs went dry, and the saloons closed."

"The west seems to me to be more deeply interested in the League of Nations than is the east, but what the west thinks counts a great deal now. Politically, the west is getting very strong, and what the west does politically cuts a big figure."

"The east is waking up to the value of good roads."

California has set the pace. Whenever good roads are mentioned, someone is sure to say: "You ought to see California's good roads." Pennsylvania is getting ready to spend an immense sum on road paving."

Dr. Thomas said that everybody in the east seems to be busy.

"I never saw Philadelphia so busy," said he. "The streets never were as congested as they are now. Everything is going full tilt. The shipyards have had a wonderful effect on business there."

HIBERNIANS ARRANGE TO GREET DE VALERA

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—With interest in Ireland's fight for freedom uppermost in the hearts of the delegates to the national convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, today's sessions are given over largely to arrangements for the reception of Eamonn De Valera, president of the Irish Republic, who arrives from Chicago tomorrow night.

Mayor Rolph, city officials and the officers of the Hibernian conclave will welcome De Valera to San Francisco for a four day stay. Friday, he will address the Hibernian convention and in the evening will address an Irish mass meeting. Saturday the degree of doctor of philosophy will be conferred upon him by St. Ignatius University and Sunday he will unveil a monument to Robert Emmett and address a meeting in Oakland.

A special train of San Francisco Irish and visiting Hibernians will meet De Valera at Sacramento.

BUMPER MELON CROP IN IMPERIAL VALLEY

EL CENTRO, July 16.—The Imperial Valley this year produced one cantaloupe for each person in an imaginary city fifty times the size of Los Angeles, on the basis of a population of 650,000. The fertile soil of that garden spot of Southern California grew 33,600,000 of the luscious melons.

These statistics are based on a production of 8000 cars for the season just closed, or nearly double the number of cars raised last year, which was 4398. Three hundred and fifty crates, with an average of twelve melons to each crate were packed in each of the cars.

The greatest previous crop was in 1917, when the carloads totaled 5000. Admiral Fullam estimates the payroll of the new Pacific fleet will be $1,680,000 monthly.

City Police Force Express Appreciation of Courtesy of City Marshal Jernigan

A big, handsome face wreathed in smiles today greets one as he enters the office of City Marshal Jernigan. The face is the likeness of the city marshal as caught by a camera man, and enlarged upon—that is the picture and not the face, has been enlarged. The picture is in a neat frame, and hangs on a wall.

The story of its appearance on the wall, is the story of a presentation to the marshal by his force of officers, as an expression of their appreciation of the courtesy he has always shown them. It was spontaneous and was not occasioned by an anniversary event, natal or otherwise.

It was some surprise to Jernigan when he "bopped" into the office late yesterday afternoon and found a number of his force assembled in the room, and almost caught in the act of hanging the picture.

"Sam, it is with the greatest of pleasure that I, on behalf of my fellow workers on the police force, offer you this as a token of our appreciation of the consideration and courtesy you have always shown us," said Joe Ryan in making the presentation address. After getting rid of that, Joe recovered himself sufficiently to continue with his short remarks. "I want to assure you that your uniform treatment of the members of the force and the interest and co-operative support given in our efforts to preserve the peace and dignity of this city is greatly appreciated."

Jernigan was speechless for a time. The surprise was complete and the words of Ryan for the moment "took the wind out of his sails."

"Boys, this certainly is a surprise to me," Jernigan finally stammered. "I assure you my heart is full of gratitude. Your action attests the cordial feeling existing between the members of the department and myself, and I promise you that my sincere effort will ever be to preserve the relations as they exist today."

"You are a good bunch of fellows. You are on the job all the time, on and off duty, and it is that spirit that counts for efficiency in the department. I thank you."

The framed picture will remain in its place for many years to come with likelihood of the action of the police force established yesterday becoming a precedent that will lead to the lining of pictures of men who may serve in the capacity of Jernigan in future years.

Those participating in the surprise for Jernigan were Motorcop Frank Stewart, night clerk L. N. Barnett and Officers C. L. Nueschwaner, John Combs, Ed Boynton, Jas. Murray and Frank Boyd.

LATE WIRE NEWS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—

Replying to a letter from Henry Woodard of Los Angeles asking if he would favor giving the Hawaiian Islands their independence and declaring the Hawaiian situation is parallel to the Irish question, Senator James D. Phelan denied that the Hawaiians are capable of governing themselves.

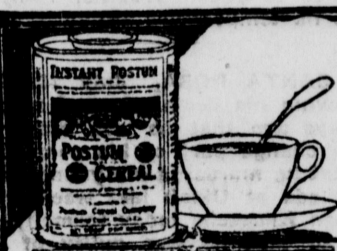

"The Hawaiians, always a backward race, are now a decaying race," Phelan declared. "They are making no demands. They are well pleased with the government of the United States which is a free government and which does not oppress people with cruelties nor coerce them by force."

ELECTRIC SHOCK

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—Smiling as she jested with a patient, Ethel Johnson, a nurse, reached backward to throw a switch and start an electric treatment machine. The smile turned to a look of surprise and the girl fell dead at her patient's feet.

Her hand formed a contact and electrocution was instantaneous.

Take Mrs. Ima Hostess, For Instance

The other night she entertained ten of her friends at the JEWEL CITY CAFE, SEAL BEACH. The party stayed from seven o'clock until after midnight watching Mr. E. G. Wood's wonderful beauty show of twenty-two people, and dancing to their hearts' content to the music of that syncopating double Jazz orchestra with two pianos.

That famous Sunset dinner, for one dollar and fifty cents, prepared as only Chef Verriere knows how, was served, and pronounced by everyone to be a culinary masterpiece.

Mrs. Ima Hostess brought her own beverages, which, iced to the proper temperatures, delighted her guests.

She expressed her appreciation to Mr. Gustav Mann, the proprietor, saying that she could not have duplicated the same dinner and entertainment in her own home for less than five hundred dollars.

NEEDS TO GO FURTHER

State school authorities have adopted resolutions under which entrance requirements to the University of California have been liberalized. While the steps taken are extensive and of consequence, there is still maintained at the entrance to the university a barrier that ought not to be there.

The state board of education has adopted the minimum essentials which shall be uniform throughout the state for graduation from every high school course. Admission requirements to all of the colleges of the University of California shall be on the basis of graduation from an accredited high school. Students recommended by the principal of an accredited high school shall be admitted without matriculation conditions.

Rules and regulations, courses of study, hours and units, and graduation and entrance requirements are absolutely necessary for the establishment and maintenance of a state school system, but because they are necessary is no reason why there should not be every effort used to rid the schools of dogmatic rules. For a quarter of a century people of the state have been protesting because the elementary and high school systems of the state seemed to be designed merely as foundation for entrance to the state university, regardless of the fact that only a small proportion of students ever got through the high school and entered the university. A long continued and determined effort to make the high schools more practicable has brought results, but it took a long time for the state university to admit that vocational courses were really worth while when entrance to the university was in question. Under the new regulations, vocational courses are given recognition.

But why surround the state university with strict entrance requirements? Why not make it easy of access for any person of years of sufficient maturity to appreciate its advantages? Ambition and desire to study and to learn should be the prime factors in admission to the state university. There are hosts of men and women in California who never took a high school course who are more fitted for scholastic attainments in the state university than are a large proportion of the high school graduates who are admitted there.

The state university might well say: "Come! What's here is yours for the taking. It is provided by the state for each and every one of you. So long as you stay here and are not indifferent to your opportunities you may stay and be welcome. When you become indifferent, it will be time for you to go, and the fact that you graduated from an accredited high school shall not be an argument for keeping you here."

EAT MORE BEEF

The Department of Agriculture urges the public to eat more meat, especially beef. "The appeal is made for the benefit of the cattle industry. The cattle men are said to be threatened with ruin because of the sudden change in market conditions caused by the end of the war. During the war years, under the stimulus of an abnormal demand abroad, American herds were greatly increased. It was made possible to export last year nearly 600,000,000 pounds of beef, about four times as much as the 1914 exports, without depleting the national supply of live stock. In fact, the herds seem to have kept right on increasing.

Now the export demand has suddenly fallen off. Europe is getting beef from Australia and South America, though it still demands American pork. Thus there is much more beef than usual available for the domestic market.

The domestic demand, however, remains below normal. There are two reasons for this. One is a continuance of the self-denial practiced during the war, from patriotic motives. Millions of people have an impression that they ought to keep on saving meat, though the need of that has passed.

The other reason is the continuance of high prices. It is no use to ask the public to increase its beef consumption very much so long as the beef costs as much as it does at present over most of the United States.

The same statement in which the Department of Agriculture asks for increased consumption shows the injustice of these prices. Federal investigators have found that while the cattle-raisers are getting about 25 per cent less for their cattle than they got four months ago, and have no ready sale at that rate, and while wholesale prices for beef have dropped to almost the same extent, retail prices have not gone down more than ten per cent on the average, and in many cases have actually risen.

Figures recently published here showed that Santa Ana meat markets were selling meat to users at prices that appeared to be the lowest in Southern California. Meat users here are evidently getting a square deal, and no complaint such as has been made in many cities has been made here. A few days ago Santa Barbara shops reduced meat prices twenty-five per cent when figures were published showing that the markets there were asking more for meat than was being asked in most Southern California cities. The publication of comparative prices so far has had no effect in San Bernardino, where high prices still prevail.

Similar reports from all over the country show that many retail dealers are making reductions only under extreme pressure, if at all.

It looks, therefore, as if the retailers are to blame for a situation unfair alike to the beef-producers and beef-consumers. If they will lower their prices in harmony with wholesale prices, the public demand will be stimulated and cattle-raisers will be encouraged to remain in the business and keep up their herds.

The packers, too, can undoubtedly help; for, largely by the device of raising the price of hides about sixty per cent since March 1, they are said to be making more money than ever on their beef.

GOOD FOR NERVES

The overseas nurses who are returning fatigued from their service abroad are making application in considerable numbers for places to work on farms.

One of them has taken up a tract of land in Wyoming, but wishes to work with some farm unit this summer, so that she may learn something of practical farming before she undertakes the operation of her own property.

Many teachers and librarians also are taking up summer farm work as the best form of vacation.

It is a wise decision which takes any brain worker, or nervously exhausted person, man or woman, out into the country to help with the seasonal tasks of the farmer, if he cannot afford a vacation wholly devoted to play. The back may ache with muscular fatigue and the brow be wet with honest sweat, but it is a health-bringing process for all that. Plain physical weariness means sleep—sound, restful sleep that will patch up ragged nerves faster than all the tonics or sedatives which ever came out of a bottle.

"Rioting for food," as the Italians are doing in many cities, may serve to appease hunger temporarily, but it doesn't increase the food supply. What is needed in Italy and in every other country, whose resources are depleted by the war, is for the people to settle down to productive work and for the public authorities to give them intelligent help and direction.

The old controversy has been resumed in the east, "Is the tomato a vegetable or a fruit?" We can settle that in two words. It is.

As Death Is Seen

Called on for an off-hand judgment, we might expect literature to treat of death most nobly in treating of it as the portal of immortality. But death as rest and sleep and death as conqueror and leveler seem the two themes that have been most often and perhaps best handled. "We thank with brief thanksgiving. Whatever gods may be, wrote Swinburne, "that no life lives forever"—everyone knows the lines. The same idea was in Spencer's mind when he wrote of sleep after toil, port after stormy seas, and in Shakespeare's when he said of Duncan that "After life's fitful fever, he sleeps well," and that "our little life is rounded with a sleep." Of death as conqueror a much longer list of celebrants might be compiled. James Shirley's stately dirge:

The glories of our blood and state
Are shadows, not substantial things,
Is but one of the hundreds of fine passages. Omar, Shakespeare, Gray, Shelley, the poets of every country, might be matched by a series of prose passages, of which the finest will probably remain Raleigh's apothegm:

"O, eloquent, just, and mighty death! whom none could advise thou hast persuaded, what none hath dared thou hast done; and whom all the world hath flattered, thou only hast cast out of the world and despised. Thou hast drawn together all the farre stretched greatness, all the pride, cruelty, and ambition of man, and covered it over with these two narrow words, 'Hic jacet.'"

Yet a good case could be made out for the celebrators of immortality. Shelley's "Adonais" and Wordsworth's "Intimations" are the finest of poetry.

Government statistics show that the average yield of cotton per acre on Imperial and Palo Verde valley lands is well over 400 pounds of lint, while the average for Texas, Georgia and other southern states is only one-third of a bale to the acre.

Portland, Ore.; Oakland, Santa Barbara, Cal., and the State of Washington were awarded the four captured German cannon for largest oversubscriptions to the Victory loan.

Second Alarm!

Let's Spruce Up a Bit

Let's spruce up!

That suggestion is always in order, but just now it is especially so when Santa Ana is setting its face toward a development into a bigger and a better city.

Many property owners along our business streets have caught the spirit of it, but there is still much to be done in the way of painting of store fronts and in the replacement of old antiquated show windows with modern fronts.

There are scores of homes in Santa Ana that need painting inside and out. Many a home would be better and brighter and more sanitary if paint were applied to the interior. There is a lot of painting that can be done by householders themselves, reserving the more particular jobs for men of experience in the application of paint, varnish and enamel.

It is a good time to let a contract for painting the house. It is a good time to have fences and garages brightened. It is a good time to clean up your premises, and in so doing you will be doing your share in helping Santa Ana to present a bright and prosperous appearance in keeping with its ambitions and its desire to go ahead.

Worth While Verses

THE PASSING.

The west wind sleeps upon the purple butte,
No echo mocks the coyote's mardant cry;
Beneath the silent moon the prairie creeps
Out to the sage-brush edges of the sky.

And where are now the thousand mighty herds,
That long since thundered o'er this drowsy sod,
Those shaggy monarchs of the desert plain,
Those grim creations of the prairie God?

A few remain—and while our wise men probe
For some lost tale of Thebes or Babylon,
This remnant, without protest from the land,
Heads for the last dim trail and passes on.

If these must die, in honor to their state,
Far better let them plunge with burning breath
In headlong stampede from some sheer-faced cliff,
Magnificent as they have lived—to death.

—Thomas Hornsby Ferril.

GROANS AND GRINS

Omar Expurgated
When Omar penned his famous screed
He little thought his lines
Would find admirers in a land
Destined to taboo wines;
But since, behold! the cards are stacked
In favor of the dries,
The bibulous old Persian we Must certainly revise.

So when we take our Omar up
By mountain stream or sea,
We'll change his celebrated verse
To run quite harmlessly:
"A loaf of bread, a pitcher full
Of lemonade, and thou,"
Will be the way we'll have to read
The Persian poet now.

Conversation

The guest came upon his hostess at the top of the stairs.
Both were very nervous.
"I am so glad to see you!" said she, without meaning it.
"I'm delighted to be here," the guest replied, just to be polite, for he really considered the thing an awful bore.
"It was awfully good of you to come. I didn't expect you would when I sent you the invitation."
"It was fine of you to remember me," said the guest cheerfully, "but of course I shouldn't have minded it at all if you hadn't."

Used Sign Language

Ephum Johnson was up before Judge Shimmerplate on a cruelty to animals charge.
"Deed Ah wahn't abusing that mule, judge," the old man demurred.
"Did you strike it repeatedly with a club?"
"Yassah."
"And do you not know that you can accomplish more with animals by speaking to them?"
"Yassah; but this critter ain't different. He am so deaf he caint hear me when Ah speaks to him in de usual way, so Ah has to communicate wid him in de sign language."—Charleston Mail.

OBSERVATIONS

An atmosphere of wealth is the scent of rye wafted up from the cellar.

It may be that the defence council was a secret government, but we needed some sort of government to get ready for business in those days.

Congress could make itself more useful if it would quit trying to find out why the War Department spent so much, and find out why the consumer must spend so much.

That little row between Italian and French soldiers doesn't prove anything except that mere soldiers need not hide their real feelings behind parliamentary rules.

The proposal to try the kaiser in London pleases everybody except the kaiser.

In this land where wealth makes aristocracy, a lot of our new-rich live on dainty viands and pine for the boiled cabbage of their youth.

The reason it irritates a man to be mistaken for somebody else is because he thinks he is more important than the somebody else.

It may console the kaiser to reflect that he will leave behind him hoof-marks on the sands of time.

The booze artist who hasn't yet decided what he will do with the money saved by prohibition probably isn't yet sober enough to observe the way food prices are climbing.

If the court doesn't make the wicked repent of his evil ways, this lawyer's fee will.

Of course you understand that a great nation will land troops to preserve order while waiting for the league to decide that the small nation was at fault.

The only amusing thing about the situation is that the Red is cursed the loudest by the man who imported him in numbers in order to get cheap labor.

The doughboy says that the kaiser will be tried in London because on the continent there are no normal grounds to try him on.

Bank Deposits Are Increasing Per Month $250,000.00

The Santa Ana bank statements of May 12, 1919, compared with those of June 30, 1919, show an increase in deposits just a little short of half a million dollars.

To be exact, the total net deposits in the Santa Ana banks were:
June 30, 1919 $8,520,409
May 12, 1919 8,074,157

Increase in less than seven weeks $ 446,252
This is at the rate of over $250,000 per month, at a season when comparatively little of Orange county's products are going to market, and when people are withdrawing money for vacation trips.

The only explanation is that our people are getting big dividends on outside investments and our population is increasing, each newcomer bringing in more or less capital.

HERE'S A NEW WAY OF FIGHTING PEST

Santa Ana, June 30, 1919.
Editor Register. At this time, the usual annual interest is being displayed as to the best method to control citrus scale, and yet (we make this statement advisedly) orchards are no cleaner than they were five years ago; nor will they be, in the opinion of the writer, while the present ineffective methods continue.

Scale in an orchard may be likened to a contagious disease in a community. A health officer who discovered a contagious disease in a community and then decided to wait until the entire community was afflicted in order to make one clean-up suffice, would very properly be considered non-compunctus; yet this is the identical method applied to orchards. Is it any surprise that nature protests? The scale family is so prolific that a constant fight is necessary to overcome it. To paraphrase, eternal vigilance is the price of clean orchards. An annual or bi-annual fumigation may destroy 90 per cent of the scale; but this is not a victory, it is merely taking the first line of trenches. Then the attacking party withdraws its forces, the trenches are rebuilt, the enemy rapidly reconstructs its position, and at the next attack is more strongly entrenched than ever before.

And so the battle continues year after year, with no appreciable gain to either side; but the orchard pays the penalty in consequent loss of vitality, resulting in impaired earnings for the owner. To expect that any orchard can retain its vitality and a maximum production, with millions of insects sucking its vital forces is to expect the impossible of nature.

What is the remedy? Just common sense. Every orchardist of small acreage should keep two or three tents and as many pots; keep a close watch in the orchard for scale, and the day it is discovered, "spot it." Do not permit it to spread to the next tree. To prevent the spreading of scale means to master it. Do not worry your intellect about whether liquid gas or the egg variety is superior, but strike it swift and sure. By striking before the scale has time to spread, the orchardist will find his fumigating bills reduced by 50 per cent, and so equitably distributed over the entire year as to be scarcely noticeable; while under the present methods the cost of from $15 to $20 per acre is a burden to the orchardist.

I believe this method would, in a short time, result in clean, healthy orchards, while under the present system there is merely a doubtful control.

Respectfully,

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness and beautiful flowers during the sickness and death of our mother and grandmother, MRS. MILDRED MAYNARD. MISS GERTRUDE MAYNARD. ALLEN W. MAYNARD. MR. AND MRS. J. W. WINTON. MRS. A. A. ARMSTRONG.

They were discussing a former acquaintance. "She was a fine girl, colonel," was the first comment, "but plain, just naturally plain." Southern chivalry asserted itself. "I don't care to say that, major; I don't care to say that, sir. But," reflectively, "she didn't handsome on right smart."

The false announcement of the flight of the former crown prince from Holland recalls to the New York Herald the editor who apologized to an irate subscriber over the premature announcement of his death as follows:—"We are very sorry to announce that Mr. B—— is not dead."

AMUSEMENTS

LAST SHOWING "YOU'RE FIRED"

Raymond Hutton plays one of the funniest parts of his career in "You're Fired," a new Paramount picture starring Wallace Reid, which will have its last showing at the West End theatre tonight. Mr. Hutton's versatility was established in the minds of all picture patrons by his excellent work as a tragedian in the C. B. De Mille Arctcraft picture, "The Whispering Chorus."

That his versatility is remarkable is proved by his work in "The Cruise of the Make-Believes," a Paramount picture starring Lila Lee, and in the present picture, in both of which latter productions he keeps the audience in an uproar.

In "You're Fired" he plays the part of a music master with a long tailed coat and a little goatee. The characterization is unusually clever. Mr. Reid is otherwise well supported in this photoplay, his leading woman being Wanda Hawley. Theodore Roberts is in the cast.

"THE WOMAN THOU GAVEST ME"

The subjects of marriage and divorce were perhaps never of more nearly universal interest than they are today. These subjects have engrossed the minds of men, and of women, from the beginning of written history.

Open a discussion of the divorce question—and everyone will sit right up and take notice. Everyone will have an opinion, and no one will hesitate to express that opinion. Lawyers, doctors, newspaper men, clerks, working people, store people, school teachers, club men, club women—the man on the street and the woman in the office, factory, shop or home—everyone is interested in one way or another in the divorce problem.

It follows, therefore, that when a subject of such wide and general interest is made the basis for a novel by one of the world's greatest writers, it will be handled in a big and brave way. Hall Caine's treatment of the subject struck an immensely popular chord is made evident by the tremendous sale of this novel, "The Woman Thou Gavest Me," of which this Paramount-Arctcraft Special picture is a visualization.

In "The Woman Thou Gavest Me" Hall Caine has endeavored to show that the marriage law was never meant to be translated into, or interpreted as the law of the Turk which makes the woman a slave and a chattel. It pictures Mary, the heroine, enacted by Katherine MacDonald, as the victim of a hateful marriage, who has freed herself of her own chains and has lived her own life. In living her own life she accepts the love of the man who loves her and whom she loves.

This picture is not an attempt to rebel openly against the law, but to show, if possible, that the law governs

Fake Schemes Used In Efforts to Swindle Farmers

FARM Advisor Wahlberg has been notified that certain fakers have been going the rounds among the farmers of the state selling their wares under the guise of government sanction.

Tree doctors, book agents and fertilizer distributors have succeeded in some cases in extracting considerable sums from unsuspecting buyers.

A recent case has been brought to the attention of the farm advisor's office by J. W. Mills, of Solano county. His letter reads:

"A farmer came into my office this morning complaining that he might have been duped by a man passing as a United States Government Agent. The man gave him an account book with gold lettering on it and told him that the Government compelled every farmer to buy one and keep his accounts in it so that he would be able to figure out his income tax. The fellow signed himself 'Ross' with no initials. He stung a number of farmers at Bird's Landing. I am giving you this information so that you can pass it along. It is apparently a new swindle that is being sprung on the farmers."

"The receipt slip was about four inches long by two and a half inches wide with gilt rays spreading from the center near the bottom with a picture of the Capitol building in the background. All writing was in common lead pencil."

Our ice cream and fruit sherberts are put up in cartons. Will keep nicely for three-quarters of an hour. Dragon Confectionery.

ing marriages may be misapplied and thereby in a sense destroy its own value.

For this reason the picture will have a powerful appeal in your community, regardless of what your laws of marriage and divorce may be—for it is an intensely vital, human and personal subject handled in an intensely vital, human and personal way. Manager T. A. Schlesinger announces the showing of this picture for Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week at the Temple theatre.

A Military Wedding.

A wedding is always of great interest, a church nuptial ceremony even more so, but a strictly military wedding and the first in Santa Ana since the war, joining together two highly esteemed and popular young people, is of wide interest to the community.

The principals in a dignified ceremony of that nature last night were Miss Winifred C. Roberts, loved daughter of Prof. and Mrs. W. C. Roberts, and Lieut. Elmer T. Worthy of the 362nd regiment of Infantry, 91st division, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Worthy.

The marriage was solemnized in the First Christian church, with which the Roberts and Worthy families are affiliated. The church was transformed into a bower of greenery and bloom for the happy occasion. A forest of young trees and potted palms formed a beautiful background for the tall and graceful fancy baskets, filled artistically with tinted byzantine blooms, some pink, some purple and some just purpling into pink, the blending of tints being most pleasing. Trailing vines of fern were wreathed about the foot of the pulpit platform and about the railings and windows.

The guests, including only relatives and intimate friends of the couple, filled the auditorium of the church, the uniformed ushers being Sergeant W. R. Coleman and Sergeant Albert Field, both of whom were in the 91st division with Lieut. Worthy, and went from Camp Lewis with him overseas.

Preceding the ceremony, Prof. Harry Garstang rendered a program of pipe organ music and Lawrence Worthy, brother of the groom, sang beautifully "Because." Prof. Garstang accompanying. Shortly after the chime of eight-thirty, the thrilling strains of Lohengrin's "Here Comes the Bride" were heard and the bride party passed slowly down the aisle, where it was awaited by the officiating clergyman, Rev. Arthur Worthy, brother of the groom, in the uniform of the Y. M. C. A. Rev. Worthy is "Y" secretary at Stanford University.

The bride's maids in lovely spotted gowns of yellow, white, and pink, with showers of pale pink and lavender sweet peas, were Misses Varina Williamson of Los Angeles, Wilma Andrews, Helen Garstang and Grace Gebhardt of Santa Ana. They were followed by the maid of honor, Miss Helen A. Roberts, sister of the bride, in pale blue Georgeanne over crepe de chine with a colonial bouquet, and the wee bit of a maid, Frances McCarter, gowned in white with blue sash and hair ribbon, who scattered dainty rose petals from a diminutive basket in the pathway of the sweet bride.

Prof. Roberts escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her into the keeping of the groom. She made a charming picture in her soft robe of white georgette over white satin. The filmy veil was fastened to the graceful head with waxen orange blooms and fell over the long court train. She carried an arm shower of white bride rose buds, sweet peas and maiden hair ferns, and wore a magnificent pearl necklace, the gift of the groom.

Cheery of disposition, with a charm of manner and personality, of unusual attainments and talents, the bride is one of the best known and most popular young ladies of the city. Both bride and groom graduated from Santa Ana High School. Later the bride attended Cumstock School of Expression in Los Angeles, where her excellent histrionic ability was developed. For the past two years she has been physical director in the Santa Ana public schools.

The tall groom was in his army uniform, which he has worn with unusual honor, and upon his breast was the Distinguished Service Cross won in the Argonne. He was accompanied by a companion in arms, Capt. Maurice Enderle of Santa Ana, who bears the scars of service in the big world war.

As boys, these two entered Santa Ana High School together, there graduated and went to Stanford University together. Lieut. Worthy graduated from Stanford University Law School. Their college courses were hardly finished and each had but begun the practice of law when America entered the war. Among the very first men from Orange county to fly to the colors were Elmer Worthy and Maurice Enderle. Together they went to officers' training school, and as fortune had it they were assigned to duty at Camp Lewis in the same regiment, the 362nd Infantry.

fantry. They were together in terrific fighting in which that gallant regiment took part. It was in the Argonne that messengers with orders for this regiment were killed, and the regiment was thus allowed to advance beyond its objective. Under tremendous fire it fought its way in, and fought its way out. Though wounded previously, Capt. Enderle was still fighting when in that day's fighting he was struck by shrapnel. In that fighting in the Argonne Forest, Elmer Worthy gathered together fifteen or twenty scattered men. His own company was shattered. These men he organized into a fighting unit. He led them successfully against a nest of machine guns that had been slaughtering Americans. The War Department statement declares that Lieut. Worthy's exhibition of courage on that occasion was an inspiration to all fighting men who saw it. For that act, he was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross.

Returning from Belgium, where the two men were fighting when the armistice was signed, Lieut. Worthy and his comrade returned to civilian life. What more natural or more fitting than that Lieut. Worthy's best man at his wedding be Capt. Maurice Enderle?

The Episcopal service was conducted in a strong clear voice by Rev. Worthy, and at its close, the bride and groom with their attendants passed out to the Mendelssohn march and went to the bride's home on Spurgeon street, where an informal reception was held, and dainty refreshments of ice cream and cake served, the bride cutting the pretty wedding cake. Only the attendants and immediate relatives were guests. The home was decorated in the blossoms of the same kind as were utilized at the church. During the evening Prof. Garstang sang several numbers.

Lieut. and Mrs. Worthy have gone for a motor trip of two weeks to Yosemite and upon their return will reside near Huntington Beach, where the groom has entered farming operations. They were the recipients of hosts of beautiful wedding gifts, as their friends are legion. They will be followed with many good wishes for happiness and prosperity.

Discharge Expected

In a letter lately received by his mother, Mrs. T. L. Scudder, Sergeant James T. Scudder stated that he expected to get his discharge some time last week. When Sergeant Scudder reached New York, he enlisted for two months in the air recruiting service so that he would be discharged there, as he wants to visit in New York state and Tokyo, Kan., before returning home. He received his release from the air service on July 3 and probably has his final discharge now, although Mrs. Scudder has not had time to receive further word from him. He is expected home about August 3.

Mrs. Scudder's mother, Mrs. M. S. Nash, is visiting her son, E. R. Nash, at Hanford, Cal. During her visit she expects to go on a camping trip with Mr. Nash and his family to General Grant's Park. The extent of her visit is rather indefinite.

To Shasta Retreat

Mrs. R. V. Langford, daughter of Judge Z. B. West, and little son, arrived Monday from their home in Imperial. Miss Marguerite West, Mrs. Langford and her son are leaving today for Shasta Retreat in the northern part of the state. One week will be spent in Oakland, the party returning here about the middle of September.

Mr. Langford, a prominent business man of Imperial, will join them during the month of August.

For Mrs. John Ball

Mrs. F. W. Wiesseman and Miss Violet Wiesseman entertained for Mrs. John Driver Ball yesterday with an exceptionally pretty afternoon party.

Mrs. Wiesseman and her daughter had planned a shower for Mrs. Ball before her marriage, but as it was unexpectedly delayed, most of the plans were carried out yesterday. A few of them outlined towels for her and Misses Ada May Sharpless and Holly Lash gave several well-rendered solos.

Lava jardiniere of hydrangeas were used in the living room and when the guests were called into the dining room to continue their visiting around the large table, a genuine, little old-fashioned garden was spread out before them. The center piece was an oblong garden, enclosed with a white lattice fence and by the gateway a little kewpie in a gingham dress was to all appearances picking the quaint, pretty flowers. There was a small, dainty corsage bouquet for each and the place cards were standing flowers. The original idea was carried out to the smallest detail and the whole effect was charming.

Guests were Mrs. John Ball, Mrs. F. P. Jayne, Mrs. W. D. Baker, Misses Peggy Smart, Rena Cranston, Ada May Sharpless, Holly Lash, Sarah Snow, Ruth Visel, Miss Rowe of Salt Lake City and Miss Helen Wiesseman, who was the little flower girl at the wedding.

Arbamar Rally.

The ladies of the M. E. Church South, graciously entertained the young people of the Epworth League at a banquet last evening. Covers were laid for forty-seven. The tables were beautifully arranged and decorated in the Epworth League colors, gold and white, and the three-course menu was enjoyed to the fullest extent.

The predominating feature of the banquet was the rally for Arbamar, the annual Epworth League institute to be held at Huntington Beach from July 21 to 28. Every one enjoyed the enthusiastic singing of the spirited Arbamar songs, led by Miss Mamie Armstrong, between courses, and the speeches all had as their theme, "Arbamar."

Miss Eunice Jones, president of the league, acted as toastmistress, introducing the speakers who carried out the following program:
A-n-ticipation—Rev. A. T. O'Rear.
R-ecreation—Miss Hazel Greenleaf.
B-e there—Miss Mary Addie Jones.
A-ction—Miss Mary Covington.
M-eaning of the Epworth League in our lives—Mr. Robert Walton.
A-rbamar Habit—Miss Doris Wells (of First M. E. League).
R-ealization—Rev. C. R. Gray.

At Catalina.

Mrs. Roy Hall, Mrs. Jack Colvin, Miss Marjorie Ellis and Mr. and Mrs. Wadsworth, who are visiting at the Ellis home, are at Catalina this week.

To Furnish Orphanage Room.

A new club, the "Orphans' Class," of Torosa Rebekah Lodge, met for the first time yesterday afternoon with the Noble Grand, Mrs. Ada Walters, at her home on West Fourth street.

The lodge's special charity is the fine new orphan's home to be built at San Jose, and as they are to completely furnish one room, it is their main objective at all the meetings of the class.

The twelve members of the club, which met yesterday, passed a most profitable afternoon quilting comforters for the room. It is hard to think of a kinder way to assist in helping others and if there is any one in need it is certainly the little people who do not have the personal care and influence of a real home and who appreciate from the depths of their hearts any little kindness shown them.

Mrs. Walters had prettily decorated her home with ferns for the occasion and at the conclusion of the work served cooling refreshments.

At West Newport

Dean Bode, of Los Angeles, rector of St. Luke's Church, beginning this week will join his family at Thirty-sixth street, West Newport. The families of Bishop Sanford, Archdeacon Marshall, Rev. R. B. Gooden, Mr. C. H. Tucker and other families are located there this summer.

Chispa Chapter Hostess

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McCleery represented the Hermosa Chapter Monday evening when the Chispa Chapter O. E. S., of Anaheim was hostess to a gathering of past officers, entertaining the past matrons and patrons' association of Los Angeles county, the past matrons and patrons of Orange county, a large number of "Trailers" of "double 19", a number of visitors from other lodges and Maude B. Sibley, grand conductress and Dr. Mida M. Hall, deputy district grand matron of the 35th district.

At the close of the business session, the company was divided into groups and each group when called on either had to sing or tell a story. John Buchanan, Mrs. Pearl Ransom, Miss Faye Kern and Mrs. Gunther appeared on the short impromptu program.

Covers were laid for 178 guests at the long tables arranged in a color scheme of yellow, emblematic of constancy, and white, emblematic of purity.

Silky and Summery

Crepe de chine, the soft, thin, alluring and washable material that wins its way to every feminine heart—is a favorite for summer frocks, in contrast to the extreme fluffiness of organdie. This lovely frock is of maize-colored crepe de chine, richly braided with yellow silk soutache, and finished with yellow silk fringe. With it a creamy leghorn with yellow maline and some wheat sprays completes a costume charmingly artistic.

GAMES OF WEEK TO FIGURE BIG FOR PENNANT

If Giants Are to Be Ousted From Lead, It Must Be Done at Once

(By H. C. Hamilton)
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, July 16.—The coming seven days may have a greater bearing in the pennant races of the two big leagues than any other period of the schedule.

Tomorrow the Cincinnati Reds move to Brooklyn and the Cubs pay a visit to the Polo Grounds. If the Giants are to be dislodged with any kind of a gap placed between them and the club that upsets them, it appears the job must be thoroughly done right now. The Cubs and Reds are their strongest rivals. Provided the giants can shoulder their way past these two obstacles, the way to a pennant is reasonably clear. The Reds follow the Cubs at Brush Stadium.

Washington, which has been traveling at a pretty fair clip, takes on the White Sox in the next trade of series, while the Yankees will move to St. Louis. If the Yankees have recovered, as seems indicated by their reversal and defeat of the Tigers yesterday, they should at least break even with the fast stepping Browns and then will come the big blowoff in Chicago, the next station for the Huggins hopes.

In 1917 the Red Sox and their white hosed rivals went to the wire neck and neck. It looked as though one or the other of the clubs might give up earlier in the season, but they crossed the experts and fought it out to the last line of defense. This is unusual and it is hardly likely that the Yankees and White Sox or the Reds and Giants will step along deadlocked for a long period. One, it appears, must lag.

The time for the knockout is here. If it isn't put over right now two of the sweetest races either league has seen for some time will be on.

PAL MORE TO FIGHT BRITISH FLY CHAMP

SAYS SHE WOULD LIKE TO TELL EVERYBODY

"I am just so pleased over the way my health is being completely restored, that I want to tell everybody about Tanlac," said Mrs. Margaret Jurich, of 522 1/2 O Street, Sacramento, Calif., to a Tanlac representative recently.

Mrs. Jurich has been a resident of Sacramento for the past nine years. "For the last year or two I have been suffering from a generally run-down condition," continued Mrs. Jurich. "It just seemed like everything I would eat would sour in my stomach and I would get up with gas and I would be in perfect misery for two or three hours after eating, and sometimes the gas would press so around my heart that I would get terrible weak and feel so faint that I could hardly stand up. I was also troubled with awful pains in my right side and the lower part of my back and I got so I couldn't sleep well at night and would be so nervous sometimes that the least little thing would upset me completely and make me very irritable. I was bothered with constipation a good deal too, and there were certain times in every month that I would just suffer agony and would not be able to do my housework at all. Then, too, my blood circulation was poor, because my feet felt cold all the time and sometimes I would feel numb all over."

"I was in just this condition when a friend of mine told me about Tanlac and what it had done for some of her friends, so I decided to try it, and it certainly started right in helping me from the very first. My appetite picked up wonderfully and I quit having trouble with my stomach, and I haven't been bothered with gas pressing on my heart since. I am not troubled with constipation like I was and my blood circulation has improved, because my feet don't feel cold now and I don't have that numb feeling any more. My headaches are a thing of the past, and so are the pains I used to have in my side and back and I am not nervous like I used to be and I sleep like a child at night. Tanlac has certainly proved just the thing for me and is giving me strength to overcome all my troubles and I am surely thankful for it and am only too glad to recommend it to others."

Tanlac is sold in Santa Ana by Rowley Drug Co., in Fullerton by G. W. Finch, in La Habra by R. H. Hilbert, in Huntington Beach by Rigdon's Pharmacy, in Orange by Dittmer's Mission Pharmacy, in Placentia by A. J. Robinson, in Tustin by Tustin Drug Co., in Brea by Brea Pharmacy, in Buena Park by Regal Drug Co., in Garden Grove by O. H. Anderson and in Laguna Beach by Laguna Beach Pharmacy—Adv.

Manager Cravath Gets Busy Early Trading Players

Changes In Phillies Are Expected to Give Team Added Strength

Here is a new picture of Clifford C. Cravath, better known among ball fans as "Gavvy" and "Cactus," just after he was made manager of the Philadelphia national team. He looks like the same old boy—it won't swell "Gavvy's" head at all because he has been honored with the managerial responsibility of the club.

He already has started in to make changes which he believes will result in strengthening his team and one of his first moves sends a man back to the St. Louis team that the former manager took on from that team.

Jack Combs traded Stock for Baird, and Gavvy has traded Baird and Pitchers Woodward and Jacobs to St. Louis for Pitcher Meadows and First Baseman Paulett.

Paulett is one of the best young first basemen in the National League. Meadows was strong in the box last year, but has not been playing to form this season. "Gavvy" hopes to bring him "back" and those at all posted on the dope believe that Cravath has made a good deal in getting these two men on his payroll. He has picked up a new good third bag player in the person of Plackburn.

Cravath will not be a player-manager. He will devote himself entirely to handling the team, but may slip in once in a while and take the bat as a pinch hitter.

It is understood that Mrs. Cravath, who is at Laguna, is contemplating a trip east to remain with her husband until the close of the season.

CARL MAYS QUIT RED SOX TEAM IN CHICAGO

Submarine Hurler Leaves After Argument With Manager Barrows

CLEVELAND, O., July 16.—Carl Mays, the submarine hurler, has quit the Boston Red Sox.

This followed an argument with Manager Barrows, it is said. Mays left the team in Chicago without saying good-bye to Barrows and now is in Boston.

However, he is quoted as saying "Ed Barrows is a fine fellow and a gentleman, but I cannot preserve my self-respect and remain with the Red Sox."

Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and New York of the American League are said to be seeking the services of Mays.

FEW STARS REMAIN FOR ELIMINATION

CHICAGO, July 16.—Eliminations at the national clay court tennis tournament had sifted down the long list of entrants, leaving few stars when the play was resumed here today.

The coast still has three net whizzers in the running. One of these is Bill Johnston, former champion. Alex Graves and Robert Kinsey bring up the trio. With these three San Franciscans playing a stellar game, the coast was expected to be represented at the finish.

RUMOR DEMPSEY DOPED

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—Now comes a persistent rumor alleging that Jack Kearns dopes Jack Dempsey before he sends him into the ring. This is given as a reason for Dempsey knocking out so many of his opponents in the first round.

Watching the Scoreboard

Yesterday's hero: Walter Johnson. The big blonde struck over a shutout for the Senators and helped score the victorious three runs over the Indians with a triple.

Grover Alexander made his first start in a month and subdued the Braves, 7 to 2.

A ninth inning rally netted the Athletics four runs and a 5 to 4 victory over the Browns.

Annihilated, 13 to 2, by the Tigers in the first game, the Yanks went back in the second and won, 3 to 0.

Bunched hits gave the White Sox three runs in a single inning and a 3-to-1 win over the Red Sox.

'Round Coast League Bases

Home runs: Speas, Beavers; Sheely, Salt Lake.

Bill Jones retired from the box in the sixth after the Senators had collected enough runs to beat the Oaks 9 to 4.

The Bees nosed out the Beavers in an 11 inning batfest, 11 to 10.

The other teams are traveling. Today the Seals meet the Ranlers at San Francisco and the Angels and Tigers tangle in Los Angeles.

BOSTON GETS MUSSER

DES MOINES, Ia., July 16.—Paul Musser, ace of the Des Moines Western League club's pitching staff, has been traded to the Boston Red Sox for Southpaw Winn of the Boston club.

SAN FRANCISCO BOUTS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—Jack Downey and Rex Morris meet in the main event of the Association Club bouts tonight. Caesar Attell will clash with Georgie Curran.

MALONE VS. DUNDEE

OAKLAND, July 16.—Frankie Malone and Jimmy Dundee will hold the boards for the curtain bout at the auditorium here tonight.

PLAYERS FOR OAKLAND

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16.—Two players have been added to the Oaks' roster. They are Roy Grover, now with Washington as a second sacker, and Gearin, a fork-handed hurler. Gearin is also of the Washington team.

AGREE WITH REFEREE

LOS ANGELES, July 16.—For once everybody attending the four-round show at Vernon agreed with the referee last night. The agreeable decision was made in calling Earl Baird's bout with Johnny Schaner a draw.

METHODISTS WILL HEAR BILL STIDGER

The First Methodist church plans to take its mid-week service crowd to Huntington Beach tomorrow evening to hear "Bill" Stidger of San Jose, who is conducting the evangelistic services at the camp-meeting.

This plan originated among some of the laymen last Sunday, when they volunteered to put their machines at the service of the church, for Thursday evening.

Those expecting to go will meet at the church at 6:45 o'clock, and the autos will leave in good time to reach Huntington Beach for the service at 7:30.

Rev. Wm. L. Stidger is unique as a preacher and evangelist. He served six months in France under the Y. M. C. A. is an author of many books, a magazine writer of note, a compiler and writer of poetry, and a preacher of dramatic power. He covers the whole gamut of life in his gospel presentation, and his illustrations from the field of literature are heart gripping and unforgettable.

BIRCH PROFITS $1258 PREMIUM $374,000 NET LAST YEAR FOR ANAHEIM BOND ISSUE

Oil Company President Con- tends Market Value of Prop- erty Is Only $375,000

Some interesting figures regarding the business of the Birch Oil company were expected to be disclosed today in Birch's appeal for a lower tax assessment, and the Board of Equalization was not disappointed, for the figures live up to what had been expected of them.

According to figures taken from the company's books and presented by A. Ois Birch, president of the company, 399,570.66 barrels of oil were produced during the year, March 1, 1918, to March 1, 1919. Returns from this oil were $509,786.86 and the gross returns from gas produced were $16,908, or a total gross return of $526,684.86. During the same period the "production" cost of the company was $152,016.31, leaving a total net return to the oil company of approximately $374,000.

Included in the "production" cost as given by Birch were the following items: taxes, including income tax, $50,340.41; insurance, $961.15; freight, $281.18; supplies, $19,294.24; office expense, $1410; labor, $44,262.26; salaries, $9,650; miscellaneous, $2155.64; machinery and equipment, $16,143.67; other expenses, $7,517.76.

These figures showed, according to "figuring" done by a member of the board, that the production expense per barrel was 38 cents, whereas County Assessor Sleeper had allowed a production expense of 82 cents a barrel, and this makes the company's net return during the year nearly double the return figured by Sleeper when making the assessment.

Under examination of his attorney, Birch testified today that his twenty acres of oil land with eleven wells upon it is reasonably worth $375,000 and should be assessed at 40 per cent of its value or $150,000, instead of its present assessment of $800,000. He also testified that in his belief the Fullerton Oil company's property, which produced only 290,907 barrels of oil last year, is worth about twice as much as the Birch property. He also said the Brea Canyon properties, assessed at $78,590, are worth about $1,250,000, and that the Birch property is worth about as much as the Columbia Oil property now assessed at $632,080.

The assessment hearing was being continued this afternoon, when arguments of attorneys were slated to be made.

Nine Bids Received for School Bonds, Sold by Supervisors to W. R. Staats Co.

Nine bids for the $166,000 bond issue of the Anaheim school district, recently approved by Mother Colony voters, were opened by the supervisors yesterday and the issue was sold to the William R. Staats Company of Los Angeles, which offered a premium of $1258.50. Other bidders and the premium offered by each are as follows: State Board of Control, $1001.50; First National Bank of Santa Ana, $800; Torrance-Marshall Company, $382; Lumberman's Trust Company, $112; Bank of Italy, $326; Security Trust and Savings Bank, $235; Rollins and Son, $800; McDonnell and Company, San Francisco, $688.

A spraying license was granted to Walter C. Michael and fumigating licenses to Hawley and Reif, and F. R. Scouten.

The board canvassed the votes on the reorganization of the Boisa Drainage district and declared the vote in favor of the district.

Maps of tract No. 90, tract No. 92 and the Ramona subdivision were accepted and the bond of each approved.

Joseph Pollock was granted permission to lay a pipe line across Santa Clara avenue near Mabury street, Charles R. Davis and William C. Hofer were given permission to lay a pipe line across Santa Clara avenue near Grand.

T. E. Niles was given permission to lay 100 feet of sidewalk and curb in front of his property at Garden Grove. The Redondo Construction Company was granted an extension from July 26 to September 26 to complete paving of the road from the Los Alamitos road westward to connect with the Bixby hill road at the county line.

The board consummated the purchase of the north 90 feet of the south 247 feet of block B, Longfellow tract, at Orange, from the Griffith Lumber Company for $1300, the lot to be used for the storage of county road machinery.

A pipe-line franchise in the northern part of the county was sold to the Union Oil Company for $500.

WILL WIDEN STATE PAVEMENT ON MAIN

Work will begin tomorrow on the repair of what is declared to be the most dangerous piece of road in Orange county, at the north city limits of Santa Ana on North Main street. The city paving is the full width of the street, and connects with the narrower state highway which lies to the westward of the P. E. tracks. This forces northbound automobiles to swerve from the wide city paving to the westward across the tracks to the state road and several accidents have occurred there, while many others were narrowly averted.

The work of making the road safe will consist of widening the state pavement to the city limits, so it will not be necessary for northbound autos to cross the P. E. tracks until the point where the tracks leave Main street, and the state highway crew is scheduled to be here tomorrow to begin the job. The county will co-operate by loaning a concrete mixer, shovels, auto truck and other equipment needed by the commission's crew in widening the pavement.

MIKE RIVERA RELEASED FROM ASSAULT CHARGE

Mike Rivera was more sinned against than sinner, in the opinion of Justice Cox, following Rivera's examination on the charge of deadly assault upon Ralph Carvajal. The incident happened at Westminster. There was a sort of free-for-all, the testimony showed, and clubs were produced with which to beat Rivera over the head. Then Rivera drew his knife and was arrested. Among the witnesses were Carvajal, M. Guerrero, Harold Craig and, D. J. Day. Cox dismissed the case on account of insufficient evidence to convict.

PINK TEA AFFAIR GETS DURSTON IN BAD

Elks Chain and Handcuff Man Who Said He Would Not Attend

"Shanghaied" and held in chains from 11 o'clock yesterday forenoon until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, J. E. Dunston passed the most of yesterday in "durance vile."

His sentence to "durance vile" was all because he said he never would attend a "pink tea" given by the Elks.

The "pink tea" referred to in particular when making his remark was the Elks' annual courtesy to the ladies, which yesterday took the shape of an afternoon and evening at Orange county park.

Dunston was chained and handcuffed and kept at the Elks' hall until late in the afternoon, when he was taken to the park and released an hour after arrival. At noon yesterday, Joe Anderson's "police ambulance" was utilized in conveying the prisoner to a local "feed shop" where he was regaled with good things to eat.

When released at the park, he was let loose on probation. He promised that he would stay on the grounds. He didn't keep his word. At least he tried not to. He jumped into a machine and was beating it for home when the guards at the gate halted him and pulled him out of the car. From that time on he constantly was under guard, but was permitted to go where he wished, with the detail escorting him.

The next time that Dunston says that he won't attend a "pink tea" given by the Elks, "he won't say it."

It was Dunston who suggested that a barbecue be held at the park. While the event was scheduled for all afternoon and evening, but a few of the pleasure seekers made their appearance at the park before 4 o'clock and from that time until 7 or 8 o'clock they rolled into the grounds in automobile load lots.

Sparring Exhibition
Intended as a day for the women and children, stunts usually pulled by the good fellows at stag parties were eliminated and the treatment accorded Dunston was the only stunt of the day, aside from a sparring exhibition put on in the evening, with Frank O. Campo of this city and Joe Lopez of San Diego as the principals.

The first round of the go was with each battler standing in a barrel. With their "footing" gone, the men knocked each other over frequently. A hard jab would send one or the other rolling over on the ground in a barrel. It was something new and afforded great amusement to the spectators.

The barrels were discarded at the end of the first round and then the gloved men went at each other in true boxing style, exchanging blows good naturedly but with considerable force. Franklin Grouard refereed the bout and announced a draw at its conclusion.

A jazz orchestra, composed of colored people from Los Angeles, provided music for dancing and many disciples of Terpsichore indulged themselves while waiting for Dr. Patton and his corps of assistants to barbecue the steaks and prepare the big feature of the program.

Promptly on time dinner was announced and at 7 o'clock there was a scramble for seats at the long tables, the diners anticipating a rich treat. In this they were not disappointed. The session opened up with a "mulligan" that whetted the appetites for the "real thing" that was to follow. Without undue delay the barbecued steak was served. It came up as expected. Juicy, tender steaks, "broomed" with garlic and this flavor just strong enough to make its combination with the flavor of smoke from the embers over which they were cooked such as to give the "real smack" of barbecued meat.

Five hundred and twenty-five steaks furnished by O. L. Carey of the Central marked answered their purpose and no one left the tables without their appetites fully appeased. Olives, rolls, coffee, lemonade and ice cream and cake did their part in satisfying the inner man.

Great for Kiddies

With burros and kidding free and ice cream cones and lemonade galore, the children of the members present had the time of their lives. The lodge engaged all the concessions for the afternoon and evening and every one of them was utilized to the full by the youngsters. Fishing was a part of the entertainment and many of the population of the lake took the bait to their sorrow and never more will they be "at home" among the weeds that have taken possession of the boating pond.

The kiddies and the women enjoyed every moment they were guests of the "best people on earth" and the "old men" were not very slow in their enjoyment of the outing themselves.

Dancing in the pavilion after dinner provided an evening of entertainment for those who delight in this form of amusement, while those who do not participate had their pleasure in sitting around in groups chatting and watching the swaying forms of the dancers as they executed the graceful dances.

Dr. Patton, who was chairman of the entertainment committee and who was the big frog in barbecuing the steaks, looked real cute with his chef hat cocked on the back of his wise old head. He was assisted in handling the steaks with pitchforks by Duffie, Franklin Grouard, Geo. Cole, Clyde Alling and Adams.

A bunch of "live ones," men who sometimes pay their dues without Wasser prodding them up, served the tables, giving quick service and getting by without spoiling very many suits of clothes or dresses by slopping coffee or other things on the diners.

It was an orderly crowd of about 500 men, women and children, and the presence of Sheriff Jackson, City Marshal Sam Jernigan and other minions of the law was not occasioned by fear that something would be started. They were there merely to participate with the others in the enjoyment of the outing.

Sam Stein was there "all at once" and not with "malice aforethought." He behaved himself and had as much fun as any of them, although he had a great deal more avoidupois to cart around than others.

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of Dr. M. A. Patton, "Husky" Young, Clara T. Johnson, Sam Stein, V. V. Tubbs, H. M. Shissler and W. W. Wasser.

WOMEN IN BUSINESS

Woman's power in America is well illustrated by the thousands of women who entered almost every line of business to replace men who were drafted during the war. Health proved their strongest asset. Many women, however, developed weak, nervous conditions and could not stand the strain of business life. Such women should remember there is one tried and true remedy in Lydia E. CATTLE COMING TO TALK OVER CONSERVATION OF WATER

Farm Bureau Alive to Importance of Pumping Plant Problem

The many complaints of difficulties experienced this year in obtaining water from wells have emphasized the importance of the recent conservation legislation passed through the efforts of the Tri-County Reforestation committee.

At the last directors' meeting of the Orange County Farm Bureau, many instances were cited of the lowering of pumps and pits to get sufficient water for the pumping plants. Many plants have been cut down from a third to a half of their former production. Some of the shallower wells can operate only at night when the water table is not drained by the deep well plants. Many of the latter plants close down at night.

The Farm Bureau, realizing as it always has, the vital relation of water conservation to the agricultural industries of the county, has invited Francis Cattle of Riverside, chairman of the Conservation committee, to present the status of the new legislation to the directors at their next monthly meeting, August 15. Cattle has expressed his willingness to discuss the subject with the directors.

The Farm Bureau has always been fully alive to this subject of water conservation, and it made a hard fight for legislation to prevent the waste of water by gun clubs. The measure was defeated in the last legislature through the concerted fight made by gun-club lobbyists.

HERE NEXT TUESDAY, VISIT TEST HERDS

Mr. Scribner and Mr. Gordon of the Los Angeles Farm Bureau will be in Orange county next Tuesday to visit the dairy herds which have enlisted for the cow-testing association.

Mr. Scribner has just returned from a six weeks' tour of the east, purchasing pure-bred stock for farm bureau members of the southern counties. He states that livestock prices in the middle west and east are quite generally high on account of the strong demand for good stock.

Spray This Week Or Next Gets Second Worm Brood

A second application of liquid arsenical sprays will be applied to the experimental plot conducted by Prof. H. J. Quayle in the walnut grove of A. J. Crookshank, Tustin. The first application was made at the time the first brood appeared, the middle of May.

The entomologists have been watching the progress of the development of the moth from week to week. They report that a spray or dust applied this week or next will get a large per cent of the new hatch.

BEACH FARMERS MAY DEVELOP IRRIGATION

At the request of a number of farmers of the Huntington Beach mesa, Farm Advisor Wahlberg has called a mass meeting of the farmers of that district to consider the development of more and lower priced water for agricultural purposes and to consider the organization of an irrigation district. About 3000 acres are waiting for sufficient water to raise crops which are impossible under the present dry farming system. Hundreds of acres could be made to produce handsome incomes where now a scanty crop of grain or beans has a hard time to mature, especially during the dry seasons of the past few years.

At a nominal cost, a modern irrigation system can be installed. The Farm Bureau has had government engineers looking over the area recently to determine the approximate costs and feasibility of bringing water to the land.

These engineers will report at the irrigation meeting Wednesday evening, July 23, at 8 o'clock at the Huntington Beach high school. Among the speakers will be T. B. Taibert, Mr. Stanley, irrigation engineer, United States Department of Agriculture; J. L. McBride, county surveyor; P. E. Kressley, city engineer of Newport Beach; Farm Advisor Wahlberg, J. B. Cleghorn and H. B. Woodrough of Newport Heights Irrigation district.

HARPER CENTER PEOPLE TO SEE EXPERIMENT STATION

Citrus Growers to Be Shown Tests Made By Experts Friday

About ten machine loads of farm bureau members from Harper will journey to Riverside Friday morning leaving the Harper store at 8 p. m., or the Farm Advisor's office at 8:30 arriving at the Arlington station about 10 o'clock. Professors Vaile, Reed and Surr have been delegated to act as guides through the various experiments.

Two hours will be spent at the Arlington fertilizer plots. The delegation will then adjourn to Fairmont Park for a picnic lunch. During the noon hour an address will be given by a member of the staff, covering some of the problems the station is endeavoring to work out.

Rubidoux station will be included in the afternoon program as well as the new station grounds on the Box Springs Road. The new methods of pruning as compared with the old will be shown at the latter station. The fruiting habits resulting from both systems will be clearly shown.

Other excursions will be conducted from time to time as requests are sent in from Centers desiring them. The Farm Advisor will make the necessary arrangements.

REGULATE FOOD OF ANIMALS BY WORK

The primary functions of food are to repair the waste of the body, to promote growth in immature animals, and to furnish heat and energy. And for these purposes only the digestible portion of the food is to be taken into account. The amount of digestible protein, fat, and carbohydrates in a ration is an indication of its fitness to fulfill these purposes.

The next question is: How much of these materials does an animal require, and in what proportion should they be given? This differs with the purpose for which the animal is kept, whether it is growing, being fattened, used for work, or making milk.

An animal standing in the stall requires less food nutrients than one which is worked hard every day. That is, in drawing heavy loads the animal breaks down or consumes a certain amount of muscular tissue, which must be replaced by protein in the food, and it uses energy or force which is also furnished by the food nutrients.

In standing in the barn it still requires some protein, fat, and carbohydrates to perform the necessary functions of the body to maintain heat in winter, to grow a new coat of hair, etc. But if it is fed the same ration as when working hard, the tendency is to get fat or waste the food.

TUBERCULAR CATTLE CANNOT BE SHIPPED

The regulation that went into effect July 1, 1919, prohibiting the interstate movement of cattle for breeding or dairy purposes unless they are properly tuberculin tested will prove to be a long step toward the control of tuberculosis and its eventual eradication. In this country, according to officials of the United States Department of Agriculture, it supplements and strengthens state regulations on this subject.

The object of the regulation is specifically to prevent the interstate shipment of diseased animals to cattle breeders or dairymen who are trying to drive out or keep tuberculosis from their herds. Cattle consigned to a public stockyard and steers and strictly range cattle may be moved interstate without restriction under the new regulation.

Copies of the regulation, which has been issued by the secretary of agriculture and is known as Regulation 7 of Bureau of Animal Industry Order 263, are being printed, and will be available soon for cattle owners, dealers, veterinarians, and others who may desire them.

SIRUP FROM WATERMELONS

Sirup to take the place of sorghum has been successfully made from imperfect watermelons in many communities under the direction of the home demonstration agents of the Department of Agriculture and the state agricultural colleges. In Dunkin county, Missouri, recipes to make it were given to each member of the Farm Bureau, to the teachers in the schools, and were put on window posters.

SHEEP RAISING IS SUGGESTED FOR CITRUS GROWERS

But Chief of Bureau Has a Word of Warning About More-Wool

Within the next few years it is predicted that every owner of a 20-acre orange grove will have a flock of sheep grazing in the grove. The experiment has been tried successfully with an average of three sheep to the acre.

L. E. Sheets, of Pomona, was the first citrus grower to make the experiment and he reports that the cost of sustaining a flock of 10 sheep in his grove is practically nothing. Mr. Sheets has figured that the 10 sheep have cost him at the rate of three-fifths of a cent a day for the flock.

George W. Thomas, the well known Alvord stock man, is responsible for the statement that they can be grazed in orange groves at the lowest maximum cost and at the same time they will supply a fertilizer for the soil that costs the citrus man hundreds of dollars in time.

"The sheep will eat every blade of grass, every leaf and every weed in the grove," said Thomas, "and at the same time they will not damage the trees. They are the least trouble of any livestock, being able to take care of themselves. All they need is a little feed and water and a place for housing at night. I have a flock of 150 and with water handy for them and a place for them to sleep at night, they need no other attention. Mr. Sheets of Pomona has assured me that he finds that orchard grazing pays and he predicts that it will not be many years until a flock of sheep will be seen in every grove of 20 acres and more. Besides the fertilizer the citrus man would receive a very good return from the wool."

These men are evidently making wool growing secondary. Here in Orange county the sheep business has been of no consequence for six or eight years. L. P. Moulton of El Toro was the last of the big sheepmen to quit the business. He found that sheep required too much care in comparison to cattle, and he gave up his sheep for cattle.

The suggestion of the Pomona and Alvord men may very well be considered in connection with the national organization of an association for promoting an increased interest in sheep-raising. Its name and slogan are "More-Sheep-More-Wool."

But the chief of the bureau of animal industry does not approve wholly of a movement to induce farmers to rush into sheep-raising unless they will make some study of the business first.

The quality of the wool depends upon the condition of the sheep largely, and the condition of the sheep depends upon the care they have. Good care, good sheep, and good care means proper methods of feeding and tending.

The chief maintains also that in dairy-herding the best methods are seldom found where few animals are kept, and that similarly the general farmer who merely adds a few sheep to his livestock without special study of the business will not contribute much of value to the sheep and wool industry.

Hence he urges not an increased number of flocks as the best solution of the wool shortage, but an increase in the number of sheep kept by men who have studied sheep-raising, and where land and other conditions are favorable.

Probably he is right. The sheep business, like any other business, must be properly conducted if it is to pay, and that means a knowledge of it as the fundamental principle. But there is no reason why many more men and women should not learn the sheep business from the ground up. The field is large, and so are the possible profits.

STANDARD OIL FINDS ANOTHER BIG GUSHER

FULLERTON, July 16.—The Standard Oil Company brought in a gusher in the Murphy-Covote field, three and a half miles northwest of Fullerton, yesterday. The well, No. 58, on the Murphy-Covote lease, came in when a depth of 4458 feet had been reached. It is gushing 1200 barrels of oil a day of 29 gravity.

This well is the biggest producer in the field, it is stated, and the oil is going into tanks without having to put a pump on the well.

The field has the record, it is claimed, of 100 per cent on producing wells, every well driven thus far having reached oil.

Policeman J. A. Smith of San Pedro proved to merchants that they were easy victims for bogus money workers by getting a counterfeit dollar bill changed at a dozen different stores.

If Pullets Are to Start Laying Early There Must Be No Breaks in Growth

A Flock of Well-Developed Pullets Ready to Begin Laying. The meeting at Garden Grove tomorrow evening, Thursday, July 17, is to consider ways by which the owner of poultry can bet the best possible prices for his eggs.

Interruption of Their Regular Habits Declared to Be Harmful

The growing pullet is a creature of habit, thoroughly addicted to regularity and vigorously opposed to disturbance and unusual commotion. It is essential for the good of the flock in its entirety that the pullets should grow and improve like clockwork, from the time of hatching to maturity. Laying is often retarded by seemingly trivial disturbances, such as moving the fowl from place to place and changing the make-up of the ration.

In order to insure early eggs see to it that the growth of the pullets is not retarded in any manner whatever. Almost without exception the pullet whose growth from hatching to maturity has been regular, not subject to checks and interruptions, is an early layer. In support of the statement that checked growth results in retarded laying, comes the fact that May-hatched pullets often lay earlier than others which were hatched in April but retarded in the early stages of their growth by unfavorable weather. Retardation by weather conditions, however, is only one of many factors which may stunt the normal growth of a pullet and defer her entrance to the laying class.

As a rule, egg production begins at or before the cessation of the pullet's physical growth and development of the reproductive organs. Generally, influences which hinder growth also operate to delay egg production for several months. Any disturbance affecting the habits, quarters or comfort of the pullet at any stage of her life may retard laying. Shifting the birds from place to place and abrupt changes in the diet often disturb the fowl enough to retard laying. In fact, poultry fanciers who desire to keep pullets in condition for exhibition often use this means of keeping them from laying. On the average, pullets about to begin laying are more sensitive to disturbance.

SHALL GROWERS GIVE PACKERS THE BEST IN PROFITS?

Meeting to Consider Ways of Gaining Strength For Association

A meeting of unusual importance to the poultry producers of Orange county is to be held tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at the schoolhouse at Garden Grove.

Poultrymen of Southern California have been operating through an association organized under the direction of the state market director. The general situation is to be discussed by State Market Director Harris Weinstein, F. D. Cornell, statistician for the Producers Association, W. L. Grubb of Santa Ana, who represents the Orange county members, and others. The purpose of the meeting is to present terms of a new contract with growers and to point out steps that should be taken to strengthen the organization.

Through the Poultry Producers Association, better prices for eggs have been received this year than ever before. Just how that has been done will be explained fully.

Believing that the organization has many advantages for the poultryman, the Farm Bureau is urging its poultry growing members to attend this meeting, which is one of a series to be held in this end of the state.

W. L. Grubb declares that the question for poultrymen to decide is whether or not by staying with the association, and building it up they will get good prices for their eggs. He believes that the association ought to be given a grip on the market instead of allowing the market to be manipulated by Los Angeles dealers.

The organization has passed through the experimental stages and is now an assured, sound business proposition with a surplus more than sufficient to guarantee dividends. The new contract is somewhat different from the agreement entered by the members last year. Last year the members of the association sold their eggs to the association at the market price. When eggs were stored by the association the profits were put into the association and paid out as dividends.

By the new contract the association is the sales agent of the producer. The eggs are pooled each week and the average price for the week is remitted to the producer as in the previous contract with the exception that the market price for stored eggs is advanced to the producer by the association at the time of storing and the weekly pool maintained regardless of whether the eggs are sold in the market at once or held over. When the eggs are sold the difference between the market price paid for them and the selling price is placed in a yearly pool together with any surplus on the two cents per dozen rate that is deducted for operating expenses. One tenth of a cent per dozen is deducted to guarantee dividends on the stock. Stock will be sold to the members at par value whenever the directors specify. One cent per dozen will be deducted from the eggs shipped to cover the stock issue to the members.

OKLAHOMA PLANS ERADICATION OF TICK

An obstacle which threatened to delay the final extermination of the cattle-fever tick in Oklahoma is believed to have been surmounted when the Oklahoma State Legislature recently appropriated $40,000 to aid the work in counties where property is of small assessable value. Through this help it is believed that several of the counties unable to complete tick eradication on their own resources will be placed this year or next year in the territory freed from the tick and from the federal restrictions against the movement of cattle from tick-infested territory.

SHAPING YOUNG FRUIT TREES IMPORTANT

Advice on Care of Deciduous Orchard Given By J. C. Whitten

The importance of proper planting and shaping of young deciduous fruit trees is emphasized in an article written by J. C. Whitten, professor of pomology, University of California. The article reads as follows:

At the time of planting the young fruit tree should be pruned to a single whip and cut back from 20 to 24 inches in height.

Medium sized one-year-old trees are preferable to strongly branched, older and larger trees. The smaller trees with active buds all up and down their stem will produce branches which can be spaced as desired. Older, stronger branched trees have their heads already formed and the branches are likely to be established opposite each other in a single whirl, which is undesirable.

Protect with Whitewash

As soon as the young trees are set in the orchard in winter they should be whitewashed to prevent sunscald and drying out of the buds and wood. It is now known that sunscald injury occurs for the most part in late winter and early spring, although it may not show on the trees until after growth is under way in summer. The natural coloring matter in the bark of young trees absorbs heat during sunny days, raising the temperature 15 to 20 degrees above the temperature of the air. With the cessation of sunshine at night the tree cools down quickly to atmospheric temperature which may reach the freezing point or even below. This alternating warming up to a high temperature during the sunny part of the day, suddenly reaching a low temperature at night, injures the tissues of the tree and causes drying out of the wood and buds. Lime whitewash reflects the sun heat during the day, keeping the young tree at or below atmospheric temperature and thus avoiding extreme variations of temperature between day and night. For that reason whitewashing the tree after planting should not be delayed a single day if possible.

The whitewash will stick better if a little common salt and flowers of sulphur are added. The salt and sulphur should be added when the lime is being slacked, as the heat of the slacking lime better incorporates the sulphur and salt and makes the wash stick better. Fifteen pounds of lime, 2 pounds of salt and 3 pounds of sulphur is a good proportion for the mixture which after these are slacked together should have water enough added to make a good, thick whitewash.

Permanent Branches

As soon as the buds start on the trees in spring, attention should be given to spacing properly the main permanent branches. About three permanent branches should start from the stem. These should be spaced at least six inches apart up and down the stem if possible.

Usually five or six upper buds at the top, just below where the young tree is cut back, are likely to push out vigorously, though the buds will start more or less along the stem of the young tree from the ground up. When these little shoots are about two inches long in the late March one of the strongest near the top should be selected for the uppermost limb. Another shoot eight to twelve inches above the ground should be selected for the lowest limb. A third one midway between these two should be selected for the third limb. All growing shoots between these main limbs should be pinched back slightly to delay their growth. Pinching back of all the surplus shoots in this early age will throw the main growth and strength into the three permanent branches desired.

The three permanent branches should be selected so as to make a symmetrical tree, so the limbs as one looks down on them from above will spread out so as to form a triangle or symmetrical spread of the tree. Pinching back the intervening shoots will cause the three desired limbs to push where they are wanted. Care should be taken to leave two or three leaves at the base of each shoot which is pinched. The more leaves the young tree has, the larger and stronger it will grow. These leaves digest the plant food which feeds the tree. A larger, stronger tree will thus be secured during the season. They also shake the trunk from the hot sun's rays and cool trunk by evaporation of sap from below. They are pinched back simply to give room, air and light for the three desired permanent limbs to make the main growth. The three main permanent limbs usually will be two or three times the size which they would have been had all the buds been allowed to make their normal and somewhat equal growth.

First Winter Pruning

The following winter, when the young tree has completed its first summer's growth, the three main branches should be headed back to where they are to divide into two branches each. They should be cut back to about a uniform height. The lower one is likely to be approximately two feet long; the upper one perhaps approximately 15 inches long. In March or April, following the first winter's heading, two main limbs toward the top of each of these three previous year's branches should be selected to become the six permanent limbs of the tree. These may be encouraged to make stronger growth by pinching back slightly any adjacent shoots which tend to push equally with them. If this pinching is not done, each of the three main limbs may make from three to six main leaders, instead of only two as is desired.

By May of the second spring these six strong growing new shoots will have reached a height where most of them ought to divide again. At this

CLOSELY WATCH FLEMISH GIANT FRUIT STOCK PROBLEMS

Effort Being Made to Develop Seedling Plants In This Country

The soils of France and America, as well as the souls of those two countries, have been bleeded—literally.

The most notable instance of the incorporation of American soil into the soil of France was the taking to France of several barrels of American earth in which to bury the body of Lafayette, but French soil has been incorporated into American soil in literally millions of places. Probably every county in the United States has its admixture of French dirt, and it is scarcely too much to say that some particles of it have found their way to practically every farm throughout the length and breadth of the country.

How did it come? On fruit stocks. The above-ground portion of your fruit trees may be pure American, but the underground portion is very likely to be foreign. With the exception of the apple and peach, most of the seedling plants on which grafting or budding is done are imported, and even with the apple considerable progress has been made in producing American-grown seedlings. From imported French seed many nurserymen have thus far preferred to import apple seedlings from France and to pay more for them. Just now, however, rather determined attention is turned toward a solution of the problem of fruit-stock production in this country. All of the peach stocks are now "home" grown from seeds produced in this country.

As competition becomes greater and the demand for the highest grades of fruit and plant products increases, we must know more of the actual relation of stocks to quality of product, to the length of life of the tree or plant, to adaptability to soil and climate, to resistance to disease and insect attacks.

One of the questions to be solved, according to the Department of Agriculture, is practically of producing in this country the millions of ordinary 'dynamite' it just about lifted me out apple, pear, plum and cherry stocks which hitherto have been secured largely abroad. Another need is the systematic study of stocks with a view to their improvement and better adaptability to the wide variety of conditions and needs that exist here and that are likely to develop as the fruit industry becomes more complex. If fruit industries are to be maintained it is imperative that there be available full supplies of the ordinary stock that may prevent some of the losses from insects and diseases.

If stocks are to be produced in this country to take the place of those hitherto secured abroad, it would seem proper that efforts should be made by the government to aid those who are anxious to know where the work can best be done and how it may be done to the best advantage. The problems involved are so complex that private interests can not well handle them. The chief problems are to find regions and soils in this country where stocks may be commercially grown and to demonstrate on a commercial scale that such stocks are equal to or better than those grown abroad. Correlating with the problem of commercial stock production is that of securing seeds for stocks. There is need for developing our home supplies. This is a long-time proposition, as there are few recognized sources of supply here such as exist in Europe.

PREPARE FOR ANOTHER DAY

Prepare today for the morrow. It is the only way to advance rapidly and with success. He best succeeds who, in advance to demand, knows his abilities and shortcomings, who is able best to estimate his capacity for production, mental or physical. Prepare incessantly for promotion, and promotion must come. Neglect to prepare for the future, and there will be no future. It is such neglect that has spelled stagnation for millions in the past, that will spell stagnation for millions in the future.—Milwaukee Journal.

time they should be cut back slightly so most of the six branches will divide again into two branches each. As a matter of fact, when headed at this time, not all of them will divide equally, but usually from eight to ten permanent leading branches at the proper height will be secured. This is as many limbs as the tree will ever need.

Heading Is Finished

No subsequent heading back should be done after the first winter, but the eight or ten main leaders once established should be left to make and retain their normal length growth annually.

Except for the first winter's heading back of the tree's main primary branches, winter pruning should consist of thinning cut limbs that grow too close together, or removing strong outside branches low down which may be in the way of cultivation, or removing any strong, water sprout branches which attempt to grow in the center of the tree and shortening inner branches that tend to cross or interfere with each other.

A broad, spreading tree should be maintained with open center to allow sunlight to enter the center to its lowest twigs. The twigs which form the lowest down will be the first fruiting branches provided they are thinned out so they can secure adequate sunlight.

Where the eight or ten main limbs are not headed back they will make branches throughout their length from the trunk of the tree upward and will make less and less height and growth each year until the tree reaches the normal height desired.

These long main limbs which are not headed back in the winter, extend outward and bend with a gradual curve as low as will admit cultivation between the rows.

In Weight, He Goes Well Beyond the Belgian Hare Favorite

A good Flemish Giant rabbit will weigh from 12 to 15 pounds, and some have been known to weigh as much as 16 to 18. Their rivals, the Belgian hares, will rarely weigh more than eight pounds each.

Aside from the weights, the difference between the two breeds lies principally in color. The Flemish Giants are very pretty—a rich steel gray, with very large ears about six inches long, carried well erect. The hind quarters of the Giants are well built and very large. The shoulders are massive and well meated, unlike those of most rabbits. This breed is very gentle. The rabbits are so quiet in their habits that they can be kept and bred in places where almost any other breed would be a failure. They seldom burrow, being perfectly contented with any clean, dry place.

The time of gestation is about 31 days, just a trifle longer than that required for other rabbits. The young are strong and grow rapidly, beginning to eat in less than three weeks from birth, and will thrive on almost anything that comes from the garden or granary.

Champions of the Flemish Giant rabbits claim for them all the good qualities that one could reasonably expect in any animal. They are perfectly hardy, good feeders, are most careful mothers, are very rapid breeders, breeding large litters. The meat is of the finest quality.

The Giants are the largest of any of the standard breeds of rabbits, and are in the front ranks for market purposes. They are monsters. A Flemish Giant butchered at three or four months of age, if properly grown and fed, will weigh about four pounds dressed, and is prime eating.

From a commercial standpoint there are two breeds that lead—the Giants and the Belgians; the former for heavy weights, and the latter for medium weights. In some markets the Belgians sell best, and in others the Giants are in greatest demand. Selection of breed should, therefore, be according to the dictates of the home market.

ances than at any other stages of their growth, and therefore require greater care in handling, but disturbances regarding the growth even of small chicks are likely to postpone the beginning of egg production.

It is imperative that every poultry keeper exercise the maximum of caution from the time the chicks are hatched until the pullets attain maturity, so that the fowl will make regular growth and not be subjected to any factors which will stunt or divert the proper development of the birds. The alphabet of proper management of the pullets emphasizes such factors as correct nourishment, regularity, comfort, well-being, constitution, exercise, and cleanliness. Given the proper care and surroundings, the early hatched chick will develop into a profitable, early and persistent producer of eggs. This is the goal toward which every poultryman should work.

FULLERTON, July 16.—Fullerton Chapter of Service Men of Orange County met at the Fullerton Club and transacted considerable business, the important feature being the election of officers. Several short addresses were made, the members present showing great interest in the new organization, which will be to the men of the late war what the G. A. R. is to the soldiers of the Civil War.

Major E. J. Marks gave an outline of the celebration to be held in honor of the Orange county service men and women at Orange county park on September 9. (Admission Day), and urged the members to be present and to make it a point to try and notify all men known to have been in the service in order that all of them can be present on this occasion, which promises to be the greatest single event ever staged in Orange county.

Following are the names of the officers elected:

President, W. L. Benchley; Vice President, Lyman D. Sherwood; Secretary, H. T. Jolly; Treasurer, I. D. Jaynes.

Executive Committee—F. M. Kimbrough, E. J. Marks, J. S. Menges, F. N. Whittmore, F. Straus.

There were some 25 or 30 members of the post present, and each one was appointed a committee of one to see that every service man in their respective neighborhoods be notified to attend the celebration.

The Wardlows drove their machine home but Monday it had to go to the garage for repairs. Bride and Groom Given Surprise and Gifts By Friends at Villa Park

VILLA PARK, July 16.—The Modern Priscillas entertained on Saturday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Adams at the Villa Park hall. The hall was prettily decorated with hearts and red flowers, and punch and wafers were served during the evening.

The crowd gathered early and fun commenced. After playing games for a while the musicians arrived and dancing was the attraction. When the newly-weds were discovered dancing together they were surrounded and a large packing box was set down before them and the groom was given a hammer and told to do his worst. Upon opening the box it was discovered to be filled with a large number of useful gifts for the happy pair.

After all the packages were opened and duly admired, the bride thanked the donors for their kindness and expressed her appreciation.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Wait, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Allen and son, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Collins and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Holditch, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Hanselman, Mr. and Mrs. George Goetsch and children, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rasch, Mr. and Mrs. J. IN HALF THAT TIME
LOS ANGELES, July 16.—Completing an eight-year course of studies in exactly half that time, Ernest Burris Bingham, twelve years of age, son of Mrs. H. Ernest Bingham, of No. 110 South Kern street, has made a scholarship record that has attracted wide attention.

Leaving the school of Our Lady of Loretto, Ernest will enter the Jesuit college in September on credits granted by the school and will plunge into a collegiate course.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lansing Burris, a first cousin of Secretary of State Robert Lansing, is the boy's grandmother. Although always remarkably studious, Ernest is athletic, rugged and strong.

The study of law has a great appeal for the boy and he delights in delving into civil cases. He will try to enter a law office when he finishes his college course. At three years of age Ernest showed a lively interest in newspapers and at three and a half years he was able to read.

AMERICAN LIMBS BEST LIKED BY CRIPPLESGreek Soldiers Literally Put on Their Feet By the Red Cross

ATHENS, July 16.—Not so very far from the Acropolis, where the spirit of Phidias and his school breathe inspiration through the centuries, there is a modern institution for reproducing the human form which to the 20th century Greek represents the pinnacle of perfection.

When you enter this interesting school for modeling the human anatomy upon realistic lines you pass numbers of Greek soldiers walking about, some a bit awkwardly, others as blithely as youth itself. Each one is proud to the point of vanity and each one is saying something about the superiority of American legs.

If by chance your mind is wandering over the various differences between the sublimity and repose of Phidias and the more sensuous Praxiteles, or the verile Lysippos, in representing the human form in those past golden days of art, the remark is startling.

But there is no mistake about the comment. The Greek soldiers are saying that the modeling of the human arm and leg by the American school surpasses anything ancient or modern Greece has ever produced.

Then you realize that you are facing one of those interesting turns in the world's wheel, when young America is bringing to ancient Greece a part of her debt which all civilization owes to the classic land of the Hellenes.

The "school" is the artificial limb factory established by the American Red Cross at Athens last December, where mutilated Greek soldiers are made to walk again. Indeed the American Red Cross may be said, in truth, to be putting wounded Greek soldiers on their feet.

There can be no question about the superiority of the American artificial limb when one enters the big workshop where twenty Greeks, some of their own work, are busily engaged. An ancient shrine of Aesculapius might have stood in a corner near the superintendent's office for here is a pile of discarded artificial legs and arms such as one sees at wonder-working shrines.

They are discarded artificial limbs of European workmanship. Compared to the light weight, finely articulated American limb with its flexibility, its knee, ankle and toe movements, the heavy stiff leather limbs cast aside have small value in the eyes of the soldiers.

Superintendent Lenknecker, the "master" of this American "school" in Athens, is sometimes overtaxed by the insistent boys who want to watch the making of their new limbs in the hopes of hurrying things up a bit.

In three months, 72 men were set walking on American legs.

Among the boys there are some who have been in America. Those do not hesitate to give themselves airs of superiority, for they know the land from which the miracle working limbs come.

There is one young Greek who for days and weeks after he was fitted with an American artificial limb which had made him "as good as new," haunted the factory. At last one day the superintendent asked him why he was so mournful when his great desire to have American limbs had been fulfilled.

"It's like this," he replied, through an interpreter, "I wish I could have another pair before the American Red Cross goes away. What will happen to me if these wear out?"

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

LOS ANGELES, July 16.—Los Angeles is to have the finest museum collection of Alaskan big game on the Pacific Coast, according to plans made public yesterday, when Supervisor McClellan was commissioned to go to the Arctic and secure the specimens for the County Museum of History, Science and Art.

SANTA MONICA, July 16.—Negotiations were closed here for the sale of the Fraser Amusement Pier to Ernest Pickering, former business manager of the amusement center in Ocean Park. The consideration is said to have been $100,000.

IMPERIAL, July 16.—Harry Riddle reports the arrival at his ranch three miles east of Imperial of a mule colt whose hind feet are without hoofs. The ends of the legs, he declares, are completely covered with hair, having the appearance of stumps. The colt is experiencing no handicap in locomotion, however, says Mr. Riddle, who believes that the hoofs will grow out in time.

SAN DIEGO, July 16.—William H. Hale, 83, and Mrs. Martha Chamberlain, 77, of this city, eloped and were married in Los Angeles. The aged bridegroom is a rancher living near East San Diego and came here from Indiana many years ago. His wife died about two years ago.

LONG BEACH, July 16.—Stealing a house is the newest form of depredation in Long Beach. E. L. Jones of 1940 Orange avenue yesterday informed the police that somebody had taken away a house near Temple avenue and Broadway owned by his sister. Officers said the tracks left indicated that the thieves had loaded the house on heavy trucks.

REDLANDS, July 16.—Mrs. S. H. Holloway of Long Beach was fined $50 in the court of Justice P. G. McFey today for leaving a camp fire burning.

GROWERS ORGANIZE TO KILL OFF FIELD MICE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 16.—An invasion of field mice, traveling in large colonies, is threatening Butte county orchards. The mice attack the trees and girdle the bark near the ground, killing them. Orchardists are organizing, under direction of Earl Mills, county horticultural commissioner, to fight the pests.

SEARCH FOR CREW OF DESTROYED AIRSHIP

LONDON, July 16.—Search was being made today for the crew of the British airship N S 11, which was blown up during a flight over the North Sea last night.

All were believed to have been lost aboard.

The airship was attached to the mine sweeping fleet. Persons living on the Norfolk coast declared they heard a series of explosions and saw burning debris falling into the sea. It is believed the airship either was struck by lightning or developed engine trouble.

The ship left Pulham, where the R-34 and R-33 are stationed, late last night, for observation.

Until the R-34's recent record of 108 hours and 10 minutes in the air on her trans-Atlantic cruise, the NS-11 held the record with 104 hours' continuous flight.

San Bernardino recently voted $250,000 for new buildings and equipment for their grade schools.

A live stock show will be held at Tulare, October 6th to 19th under the ausp

TOWNER'S BEAN CUTTER

It built upon the principle that it requires plenty of weight properly distributed to do good work. It is strongly built and has that amount of weight which durability and efficiency require.

Steel frame is very heavy and strong, is made of angle steel and is thoroughly braced.

Runners are made of high grade steel and of a thickness that insures long life.

Each cutter is equipped with rollers which prevent tearing vines when cutting and is the means of saving the price of the cutter alone.

The blades are made of the best quality steel, extra heavy, and are adjustable to take up wear. We also carry extra blades and parts.

CALIFORNIA SEEKING DEMOCRATIC MEETING

SAN FRANCISCO, July 16—Los Angeles Democrats are uniting with those of this city in an effort to obtain the Democratic National Convention for California, according to F. Ray Groves, Los Angeles, secretary of the Democratic State Committee.

Groves, who is here making preparations for the reception of President Wilson in his League of Nations campaign, declares that Los Angeles has given up the fight for the convention and that Southern California Democrats are bending every effort to obtain the convention for San Francisco.

CORN OR WEEDS, WHICH?

Weeds and corn are sworn enemies, with the balance of power usually with the weeds. They require the same food and the same moisture, but there is only enough for one. Which shall have it, the corn or the weeds?

California's lemon crop last year totaled 3,792,650 boxes.

BUY GROVE, TO FINDS PLOWING KEEP POULTRY FOR MANURE WITH TRACTOR A PROBLEM

Andres and Spence Buy Baker Street Walnut Orchard
From W. L. Grubb

A recent realty transaction of interest was that whereby W. L. Grubb sold his twenty-acre walnut grove and chicken ranch on North Baker street to Fred Andres of Garden Grove and C. W. Spence, Spence taking five acres and Andres fifteen. Andres gets all the improvements and three-fourths of the livestock and chickens. They will operate the place jointly for a time, and later Spence plans further improvements of his five acres. The walnut trees on the place are twelve years old.

Grubb has contended for a long time that the time is here when orchardists must prepare to fertilize their groves from their own ranches, and he has been keeping his trees in the best of condition, fertilized only by alfalfa and from his chickens. This plan will be continued by the new owners, and Andres says he will continue the chicken ranch only for the purpose of furnishing fertilizer for his grove. If he only breaks even financially directly from the chicken business, he believes he will be money to the good through getting the chicken fertilizer for the trees. Grubb says that authorities say one chicken furnishes fertilizer sufficient for one tree.

ASSOCIATION GIVES GOOD PRICE ON PITS

The California Prune and Apricot Growers, Inc., a co-operative association, urges its members to dispose of surplus pits through the association. Its announcement says:

"To those of our members who have not yet signed pit contracts to deliver their apricot pits to the association, we make earnest appeal that they will do so very soon.

"Last year when we purchased our offer to pay members on delivery, cash, $34.50 per ton and whatever balance sales would warrant, no packer was paying nearly so much. Our final settlement was at $37.50 per ton. This year the prospect is for a better price, provided we can secure a much larger sign-up. With pits as with fruit, our success depends on the measure of our control. Therefore all members will benefit by the added tonnage. Every reason favoring the largest possible control in dried fruit also favors a like control of pits. Some think their holding of pits to small to be of any consequence, yet only a few of our members have pits in large quantity. A majority deliver pits in pounds rather than tons. Is it quite consistent to be a loyal member with your 'cots and sell your pits to one whose success tends to defeat our association? You may get, or think you will get, a little more from the packer for this lot, but in the years you will get more through the success of your association. Better bring your pits where your 'cots go."

Government Issues Bulletin
With Suggestions on Laying Out Field

Plowing with tractors presents some problems that never bother the man who uses horse-drawn implements. It is necessary to lay out fields, so that a high-class job of plowing can be done over the entire area with the minimum use of a horse-drawn plow in starting and finishing the work, says Farmers' Bulletin 1045, recently published by the United States Department of Agriculture, which gives in detail some of the best methods for laying out land and plowing with tractors. The methods in general use are divided into two classes in the bulletin—those in which the plows are elevated and no plowing is done across the ends, and those in which the plows are left in the ground continuously. In most cases better plowing can be done when the plows are idle across the ends of the field, and for this reason the methods of this class are more popular, but many farmers prefer the other methods, as they eliminate waste of time and labor.

Plowmen using tractors wish to reduce to a minimum the time spent in running and in turning with plows out of the ground. While it is necessary to do some traveling while the plows are idle, care should be taken not to do too much of it, as it reduces the number of acres which can be plowed in a day, making the tractor that much less efficient. Short turns, however, are awkward for most tractors, and where such turns are necessary the operator often has more or less difficulty in getting the outfit in the correct position for starting into the new furrow at the right point. Some tractors turn more easily in one direction than others, and this should be taken into consideration in laying out the fields.

Advantages Summarized
The advantages of plowing by the methods in which the plows are idle across the ends of the field are that the short, awkward turns are eliminated, except in some cases at the beginnings and ends of the lands, and usually less space will be left at the corners to be plowed with horses. The advantages of the other methods are that little or no time is lost in traveling with the plows out of the ground, and that ordinarily the number of dead furrows and back furrows will be considerably less.

In using the first-named methods it is necessary to measure the lands in the center of the field accurately, leaving an equal area on all sides of the field in which to turn the outfit, and which can be plowed last by running the tractor completely around the field several times. If one end of the field is unfenced the outfit can be pulled out into a road or lane, or an adjoining field, for turning. It may be preferable to plow up to the fence on the two sides as the body of the field is being plowed, and leave the headland only across the end of the field which is fenced. The width of the headland will depend largely on the turning radius of the tractor. With easily handled outfits it is not necessary to leave more than 15 or 20 feet, but plenty of room should always be left, and for this reason headlands 50 feet or more in width are preferable to narrower ones.

Care Saves Time
If the field is to be finished up in the best manner, with no irregular, unplowed strips between the land or at the edges, it is essential that care be taken to have the headland of the same width clear around the field, to have the distances measured exactly when starting new lands, and to have the first furrows as nearly straight as possible. A little extra time taken in measuring off the necessary distances and setting plenty of stakes for guidance will nearly always be more than returned in saving time at the finish. If the tractor pulls three or more plows, cutting a total width of three or more feet, some effort should be made to have the width of the headlands an exact multiple of the total width of the plow, so that the last strip across the field will exactly cut out the land or finish it to the fence. This will do away with the necessity of making a trip across the field, probably over the plowed ground, to turn a narrow strip which has been left unplowed.

When methods are used in which the plow is left in the ground continuously the outfit is started in the center of the field. For the first three or four rounds the plows are lifted at the ends of the furrows, and then they are left in the ground when the turns are made. The outfit is then run around the field until the entire area has been plowed, and if the field has been measured correctly before the tractor started, the last round will plow the land next to the fence on all sides.

PARASITES RECEIVED
The Insectary Division of the State Commission of Horticulture has received notice from the Board of Agriculture and Forestry of Hawaii that the shipment of Pteromalus puparum, parasites of the cabbage worm, arrived at their destination in excellent condition. Four hundred specimens were liberated and a stock retained for breeding purposes.

MEXICAN MISSIONARY PROGRAM AT CHURCH

TALBERT, July 16—An interesting program was given last Sunday evening at the local M. E. church, South, by Miss Alfter, missionary at the Toberman Deaconess Home of Los Angeles and six of her Mexican pupils.

A large congregation composed of American and Mexican people were present and the service was given in both languages.

One of the boys told his experience speaking in Spanish to the Mexican portion of the audience and translation to the English was made by Miss Alfter.

Two songs were sung, one in English and one in Spanish, a lady who accompanied Miss Alfter presiding at the piano.

Following the program by the visitors, Rev. Tirre, the Mexican Missionary who has just organized a mission here preached the sermon in his own language. The local mission which was established two weeks ago promises to be a decided success, a large number of the Mexicans having been in attendance at the two meetings held.

These meetings will be held regularly each Tuesday evening at the church and out door meetings have preceded them so far. Rev. Woodson, pastor of the local M. E. church, South, is co-operating with Rev. Tirre in his work here.

The first day in thirteen months the Los Angeles police patrol wagon didn't have a call was the day after war-time prohibition.

Save $100,000.00

MR. ORANGE GROWER—

Dear Sir:

Do not be either fooled or deceived by specious statements regarding UNIT DOSE of LIQUID HYDRO-CYANIC ACID (Hydro-Cy); but DEPEND UPON A UNIT DOSE OF 18 C. C. for HIGHEST EFFICIENCY IN SCALE KILLING; and apply it with HYDRO-CY APPLICATOR and by HYDRO-CY METHODS.

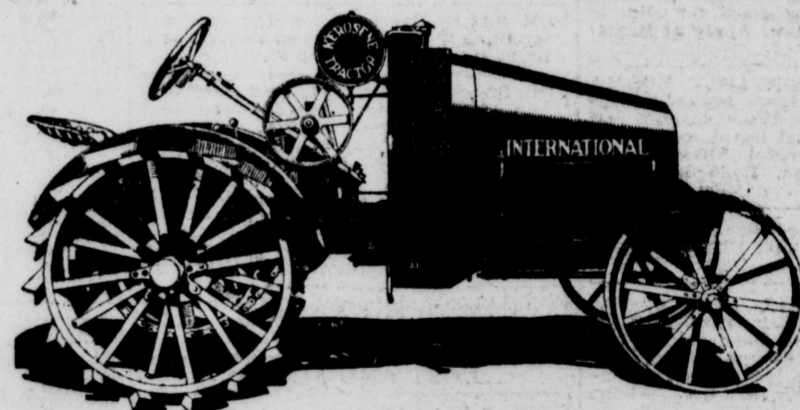

I have proven that a UNIT DOSE of 18 C. C. is the maximum amount required. This fact has also been proven by EXPERIENCED MEN CONNECTED WITH THE U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, BUREAU OF ENTOMOLOGY. As compared with the higher dose recommended from elsewhere, the cost to the grower for the Hydrocyanic Acid, which I estimate will be used this year, will show a net saving of over $100,000.00 on the 18 C. C. UNIT DOSE. WHY WASTE MONEY?

Yours truly,

F. W. BRAUN
